Italo Chief Moves His Garrison

British Say Graziani's Headquarters Have Been Taken From Cirene Report Is Given

Fascist Paper Declares Hopkins Told F. D. R. of Anglo Plight

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 25 (AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani has removed his Libyan army headquarters from the Akdar mountain town of Cirene and withdrawn most of the garrison of the Port of Derna from the path of the British drive west of smoldering Tobruk, according to military circles here.

The British said heavy attacks by RAF planes ranging ahead of advancing columns apparently had forced the Italian command to leave Cirene, 50 miles west of Derna and 145 miles west of Tobruk. Derna was reported left virtually undefended.

Reports from the British-occupied base at Tobruk indicated, however, that the main British drive was cutting south of these coastal positions, directly across the Cirenaican "hump" toward the next big Italian base at Bengasi.

British tanks and Australian infantry have been reported in the vicinity of El Mechili, southwest of Derna, and almost half-way along the 150-mile inland route from Tobruk to Bengasi.

It was disclosed last night that General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of the army of the Nile, visited his troops in Tobruk Thursday, the day after it fell to British assault.

He praised the soldiers there—Australians lolling in the sun, riding Italian bicycles through streets lined with shell-torn buildings, and eating "victory" meals of captured Italian food supplies and wine.

The columns already moving to the west were composed of troops held in reserve during the Tobruk attack.

The British reported gains, too, on the war front in East Africa.

Desert fighters were said to have penetrated 80 miles into Eritrea from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan—more than half way to the colonial capital at Asmara, driving past abandoned Fascist outposts at Keru and Aicota.

Hopkins' Report Is Announced

Rome, Jan. 25 (AP)—The newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia published today a report from New York which said that Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative in Britain, had telegraphed the President that Britain could not wait any longer for American aid.

This report said American aid to besieged Britain could not arrive "in time."

Il Giornale d'Italia is edited by Virginia Gayda, foremost editorial spokesman for the Fascist regime.

The paper's dispatch, from correspondent Pietro Saporiti, said in part:

"A personage approached by us admitted that Roosevelt had received a report from Hopkins concluding with the impossibility for England to wait any longer for American aid since it would not arrive in time anyway, even if speeded up as much as possible."

Aid Is Favored

Chicago, Jan. 25 (AP)—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States favor aid to Great Britain but disapprove the lease-lend bill in its present form.

U. S. Holds Escaped Nazi at Ogdenburg

Ogdenburg, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—A German pursuit pilot who escaped from two British prison camps and a Canadian prison train after being forced down in England September 7, is being held here for illegal entry into the United States.

An immigration official said the pilot, Baron Franz von Werra, Messerschmitt squadron leader, claimed he crashed into another German plane while coming out of a power dive, after shooting down three British planes over London, and was forced down, unhurt.

The pilot told authorities he first escaped from a prison camp near Liverpool, later from a camp in Scotland and two days ago from a prison train, carrying him to an unknown destination in Canada. He asserted he entered the United States by crossing the St. Lawrence river in a rowboat.

Lehman Would Use Crossing Monies For Better Roads

Governor Says Only 55 Killed at Grades, but Thousands Died on State Highways

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Spending of $60,000,000 on highways will be of "infinitely more" benefit, both economically and in saving lives, than if used to eliminate remaining railroad grade crossings, Governor Lehman asserted today.

Discussing in an interview his proposal for diversion of that amount from crossing removal funds to road building, the governor said his insistence on its approval by the legislature is based on a "firm belief" that:

"The function of sound government is to make every available dollar serve its most useful purpose."

"Fifty-five persons were killed on our grade crossings last year," he added. "At the same time several thousand were killed and countless thousands injured on highways."

The constitutional amendment embracing Lehman's proposal was approved by lawmakers in 1940 and must pass another legislature before reference to the people. It contemplates use of half the $120,000,000 remaining from a $300,000,000 bond issue approved for crossing eliminations in 1925.

The other $180,000,000 has been spent or obligated for crossing removals.

Emphasizing he was not disparaging the importance of such projects, the governor added "There are, however, many uses to which the money can be spent more beneficially than for elimination of grade crossings which will be left after spending $240,000,000."

"If this money could be used for health, for instance, we could save not 55, but 5,000 lives a year."

Living Costs Increase

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—Secretary Perkins reported today that living costs in the larger cities increased six-tenths of one per cent between November 15 and December 15, 1940.

Rosoff to Abandon Line

Hudson River Night Line Owner Also Announces Tentative Sale of Two Boats to Federal Government

Samuel R. Rosoff, subway contractor and owner of the Hudson River Night Line, has announced abandonment of the line and the tentative sale to the government of the last two of the fleet of four boats which made the overnight run between New York and Albany.

Rosoff said he had been losing "thousands of dollars," recently because trucks and buses had cut into the amount of freight the line used to carry, The Associated Press reports.

At one time the line carried as many as 2,000 passengers on week-end trips up the river to the state capital. Rosoff said the Day Line would be continued.

Representatives of the third naval district had taken an option to buy the river liners, Berkshire and Rensselaer, for the junk price of $110,000 for both boats, Rosoff said. They were refitted and overhauled three years ago at a cost of $500,000.

Although officials of the third naval district declined to discuss the transaction, Rosoff said he understood the boats might be used as ferries or barracks at army training camps near navigation facilities. The two boats had combined facilities for 5,000 persons, he said.

Government cutters now are working to ice the Berkshire and Rensselaer from ice off Marlborough. If the transaction goes through, Rosoff said he would sail the boats to the maritime commission pier at Hoboken, N. J., within a week.

Captain Frederick G. Reinicke, port director of the third naval district, announced the transfer of Robert Lehman's cabin cruiser, Now Listen, to the navy for $1, and the purchase of the 495-ton yacht Cornet from Irving T. Bush, president of the Bush Terminal Company, for $60,000.

BULLITT SAYS INVASION CERTAIN, IF BRITAIN LOSES HER WARSHIPS

Rumanian Vice Premier Is Arrested

Horia Sima Is Charged With Revolt

Antonescu Declares Civil Strife Began With an Attempt to Assassinate Him

Thousands Hide Thousands of Guardists Hide in Fear of Being Punished

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 25 (AP)—Vice Premier Horia Sima, Iron Guard chieftain named by the Rumanian government as a leader of the forces which revolted against the Antonescu regime early this week, was reported under arrest today.

(A newspaper dispatch to Budapest, Hungary, from Bucharest, said it was reported that Rumanian soldiers had stormed the Iron Guard's "Green House" quarters in the hunt for Sima, who had barricaded himself there.)

(Charges of looting as well as rebellion were reported lodged against Guardist leaders. They were accused of sacking synagogues and wrecking the newspaper plants of Universal and Curentul.)

Premier General Ion Antonescu declared in a signed statement in the newspapers today that a midnight attempt to assassinate him had touched off the bloody rebellion.

An important nest of 250 rebels was smoked out at noon today. They were said to have had a large cache of hand grenades, guns, food, liquor and cigarettes.

Accused Trusted Ones

Antonescu's summary said "men whom I trusted and all those dear children in whom I put such faith and advised to respect the death of Codreanu (Corneliu Codreanu, Iron Guard martyr) could find no other way to show their faith in me than to send bullets against me and the state."

"In the pages of history there does not exist a page of greater ingratitude."

"In the premier's office I worked like a slave early and late. I abandoned my home so as not to lose a minute."

The council of ministers declared today in an official resume of this week's bloody events in (Continued on Page 14)

Woodstock N. Y. A. To Open Training Center for 30 Girls

Administration May Lease Baumgarten Property as Residence; Building Work Underway

Woodstock, Jan. 25—Construction of a building to be used as a textile training center and shop for 30 girls at the local National Youth Administration center is under way and according to an announcement today should be completed by the end of February.

Negotiations are also under way to lease a house owned by Mrs. Alfons Baumgarten on the Woodstock-Saugerties road a half mile below the center as the resident headquarters of the girls.

Funds have been allotted for the new building project and materials have been purchased and are now being shipped to get construction of the super structure under way at once.

The building will be one story, 40 by 102 feet of frame construction with bluestone veneer. The ground has been cleared, the foundation dug and form work on the foundation started.

Scaffolding is also being removed, it was learned today, from the one-story bluestone building to be used as the metal work training center for boys. This structure is 60 by 44 feet and will house machinery for teaching metal-working trades. The machinery, it is expected, will be moved in some time next week.

Officials of the local N. Y. A. center will meet next week, it was announced, to decide on a definite date for the opening of the resident center for the girls on the proposed Baumgarten property. February 15 had been set as the tentative date for bringing the girls here, but it has been decided since that the training shop will not be completed by that time.

Construction of the new shop is expected to progress rapidly once it gets under way and the girls will be notified to move into the resident center as the shop building nears completion.

A large bluestone house on the Baumgarten property, if current plans are completed, will be the resident center for the girls, and work in preparing the building for this purpose is expected to start as soon as the lease is signed.

The girls textile shop, like that at Hoboken, N. J., within a week. Captain Frederick G. Reinicke, port director of the third naval district, announced the transfer of Robert Lehman's cabin cruiser, Now Listen, to the navy for $1, and the purchase of the 495-ton yacht Cornet from Irving T. Bush, president of the Bush Terminal Company, for $60,000.

Halifax Starts His Job Of Getting Munitions

Ambassador Seems Sure of Full Help at Washington; Veterans in Capital Can Find No Precedent for Roosevelt's Trip to Greet Official

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—Fresh from the innermost councils of London's war cabinet, Lord Halifax, new ambassador to the United States, undertook for the British Empire today the all-important task of keeping American munitions moving in ever-increasing quantities to Britain's fighting forces.

That he was assured of full cooperation on the part of Washington officialdom was accepted here as beyond question after President Roosevelt had extended an extraordinary gesture of friendship by receiving him even before the tail.

spare Englishman had set foot on American shores.

The manner of meeting between the chief executive and Britain's former foreign secretary, in fact, left veterans in the art of diplomacy searching in vain for a precedent and capped in drama the envoy's secret crossing of the submarine-infested North Atlantic on one of Britain's great new battleships—the 35,000-ton King George V.

Aboard the dreadnaught Halifax arrived in Chesapeake Bay, six miles below Annapolis, Md., yesterday afternoon. There, after a swift motor trip from Washington to Annapolis where he boarded the yacht Potomac, Mr. Roosevelt welcomed the ambassador and Lady Halifax at nightfall. They had transferred from the warship (Continued on Page 19)

Dr. Twiddy Says Britain Champions Democracy's Cause

Methodist Presiding Elder Says Present War Is Also Indication of Spiritual Needs

Dr. Norman W. Twiddy, presiding elder of the Methodist Churches in the Eastern Conference, speaking at the annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Friday evening said that the present war is an indication of the need of a spiritual bridge of international understanding between youth and age and between person and person.

Dr. Twiddy braved the snowstorm in his trip here from Stamford, Conn., and those who attended the meeting Friday felt amply rewarded for their effort to attend. His buoyant personality captured the dinner audience upon his entrance into the hall.

Dr. Twiddy opposed the march of dictators and said that Great Britain is championing the cause of humanity in the present conflict.

Taking "building bridges" as his topic, he pointed out three requirements necessary for the bridge builders. The first was the acquisition of a sense of humor, without which a person only wears out himself and those around him. The man with a sense of humor can withstand the shocks he meets in life from time to time. Without the sense of humor the burdens become heavier in imagination than in reality.

Sense of Fairness

The second requirement for the "bridge builder" that Dr. Twiddy mentioned was the sense of fairness.

Storm Leaves Snow 9 to 12 Inches in City and County

Local B.P.W. Does Swift Job of Plowing; County Forces Have Little Difficulty

Shortly after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon a snowstorm, sweeping down from the north, broke over Kingston and Ulster county and when the storm finally ceased last night it had deposited nine inches of light, powdery snow that clogged streets and sidewalks, and called out all of the snow fighting equipment of the Board of Public Works.

Work of plowing the streets was started by the public works board at 6 o'clock Friday evening with the placing at work of 12 plows and the three graders. Work was first started on the main streets, and then the work of opening the side streets was taken up.

The snow plow crews worked all during the night and this morning plowing was continued.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Ulster County Highway Department trucks were started out to clear county highways of the heaviest snow of the year. Although the snow reached a depth of approximately 10 to 12 inches and in a section about Sawkill and Mt. Marion greater depth was reported, the snow removal equipment experienced little difficulty in coping with the snowfall.

New York Police Capture Two Suspects In Frisking of Wappingers Policeman

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—Patrolman Joseph Costa, heretofore the entire night police force of upstate Wappingers Falls, will have a partner beginning tonight to prevent possible recurrence of yesterday's upsetting events.

Doubling of the night patrol was ordered by Mayor James McCaffery after three men captured Costa, stole three police service revolvers and escaped in the police department's only patrol car.

Two men accused as members of the trio were arrested early today and held at a Bronx police station.

Here's how it happened, as Costa reconstructed events:

The prisoners, who identified themselves as William A. Newberry, 21, and Paul Picard, 18, together with another man parked in front of the Wappingers Falls National Bank.

Costa asked them for their automobile license. They argued, so Costa took them to headquarters, took their fingerprints and began to handcuff Newberry.

He said Newberry balked and drew a revolver, whereupon the trio took Costa's gun, tore down the telephone wire, put the policeman's own handcuffs on him and bound his feet.

Then they headed for New York, not forgetting to take the village patrol car. Police here collared two men as matching Costa's description and took fingerprints of them, and kept hunting for the third man.

Costa brought Assistant District Attorney Eli Geller of Dutchess county with him when he came to identify the prisoners, and Geller said he expected to have indictments in that county by Tuesday, on charges of assault and robbery.

Assistant District Attorney Francis X. O'Brien of the Bronx said the prisoners admitted stealing the auto in which they traveled to Wappingers Falls and held them on that charge.

Thinks U. S. Not Ready For Attack

Former Ambassador Also Says Sure Way to Fend Off Raid Would Be in War

'We Can't Appease'

Tells House Group No Appeasement of Nazis Possible

Washington, Jan. 25 (AP)—William G. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, told congress today that invasion of the western hemisphere would be "almost certain" if the British navy were destroyed and a "totalitarian" power gained control of either the Atlantic or Pacific before the United States' two-ocean fleet is ready.

Describing what he said would be the drastic consequences to the United States if Britain were defeated, Bullitt asserted before the House foreign affairs committee at a crowded hearing on the administration's aid-to-Britain bill that the "most certain way" to insure against such a defeat would be for this country to go to war. He prefaced this, however, with a declaration that "we are determined not to be drawn into this war."

Declaring flatly that the United States is not prepared today to meet an attack, Bullitt said "we must buy time in which to prepare."

"We can buy that time only by making certain," he added, "that the British fleet will continue to hold the totalitarian forces in Europe while our fleet watches in the Pacific."

28-Point Statement

In a 28-point statement to the committee, the former ambassador asserted that "our country is in such danger today that decisions on the effective use of our instruments of defense are as vital as if we had already been attacked."

"Bill 1776 (the British aid legislation) is designed to empower the President to make those decisions," Bullitt said. "By passing it, the congress would show, I believe, that the wisdom of the framers of our constitution is still alive in our land, and that we, like our forefathers, will submit to no master but God."

At the start of his statement, Bullitt declared this country was determined to maintain the independence of the United States and government "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

"We hate war," he continued. "Therefore, we desire to protect our country and our liberties without going to war."

Appeasement Impossible

Telling the committee that Germany had drawn both Italy and Japan into a league "directed against us and other free nations," Bullitt asserted that "we cannot appease Germany."

"It is impossible to appease the unappeasable," the carefully dressed former ambassador said. "And the western hemisphere is the juiciest morsel before the dictators."

While the Atlantic and Pacific oceans remain obstacles to invasion of the Americas, the witness said, "that this country would not have a two-ocean navy before 1946."

Without the British Navy, we could not protect both the Pacific coast and the Atlantic coast of the western hemisphere," he continued.

"We could not lock both the front door and the back door of our national home."

Declaring that "strong totalitarian elements" exist in many South American countries, Bullitt asserted the movement of totalitarian control toward the Panama Canal would be "rapid" in event of elimination of the British navy and control of either the Atlantic or Pacific by a totalitarian fleet.

He added that the experience of cities in England had shown that it would be impossible to prevent bombardment of the canal by planes based on the northern portion of South America, Central America or on aircraft carriers.

Invasion of the western hemisphere would be "almost certain," Bullitt said, if the British navy were eliminated and the Panama Canal blocked before the United States Navy reached sufficient strength to command both oceans.

"It is entirely certain," he said, "that the shipbuilding facilities in the hands of the totalitarian dictators would be at least four times (Continued on Page 14)

Emergency Crop and Feed Loans Available

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1941 are now available to farmers in New England, New York and New Jersey as part of the regular loan program of the Farm Credit Administration to enable farmers to file their applications early and arrange their season's program, according to the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, Springfield, Mass.

These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain a loan from any other source, including production credit associations. The money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing and cultivating his 1941 crops or in purchasing or producing feed for his livestock.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of cash crops are required to give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or in the case of loans for the purchase or production of feed for livestock, a first lien on the livestock to be fed. Checks will be issued on approved applications when funds are required.

The times and places at which applications may be filed to obtain the loans will be announced by field supervisors for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. Further details on the loans and their uses may be obtained from the field supervisors and county agricultural agents.

A selectee showed up at the fort with a bicycle, a bedroom suite and a rowing machine. Officers decided the army cots were adequate, that inasmuch as he was in the infantry he wouldn't need the bicycle and as for the rowing machine, well, they don't need oarsmen in the army.

City Affords Its Own Chance for Winter Sports Activity

Hills and Ponds Are Widely Used By Young and Old

Various Playgrounds Also Offer Many Facilities for All Kinds of Outdoor Sport

Winter sports have been more or less of a traditional backyard habit in areas such as Kingston and Ulster county but the idea seems now to gain new impetus each year as the nation puts more stress on fun in the open spaces.

A ride on the old flexible flyer is still a thrill for the average adult as well as the youngsters and the same goes for skating, skiing and every other kind of winter recreation.

The city's playground program has grown gradually for the past several years with a view to adding more facilities for winter as well as summer outdoor activities and more people get out for the fun in the various neighborhoods.

Current growth of skiing as a national fad shows its effect in every large and small community and this sport more than the others has a special attraction for the ladies since it offers a chance to dress up in the special styles of each season.

Perhaps this style element is one reason why more people get out into the frigid weather, for some of the men, too, have a particular fancy way of "rigging up" to keep more or less in harmony with the idea and possibility to look as dashing as possible in return for the show put on by the ladies.

City Is Well Endowed

Kingston is especially well endowed with what might be called a winter sports topography. It has slopes in about every neighborhood and a variety of ponds, lakes and streams. It is like a resort within itself and the new efforts of the local recreational department are helping along with this idea.

The coasting hill at Lawton Park, just off the Boulevard, is perhaps the main attraction to both young and old and few in any city could be more tempting to those who like to ride down hill.

This sled run is about the right length and slope and its location on the heights just above the bright lights gives it an atmosphere of special enchantment.

It is being discovered almost daily by new groups of adults as well as children and by the end of this season it probably will be the veritable center of winter fun in the city.

Place to Get Warm

A building less than half way down the slope offers chance for a warm-up when the days or nights become too cold and this too adds to the attractiveness of the sport. It is equipped with a fire place and a ping pong table for those who like to warm up through a bit of indoor exercise and its benches allow for a rest in the event anyone is over-enthusiastic in his fun.

Other parks in the city are equipped mainly for skating facilities and all attract crowds daily from the various neighborhoods.

Skating in this region also is a matter of a wide variety of choice and many who like the more secluded spots go out to the various streams which surround the community and to the ponds and lakes within the city limits or just over its boundaries.

Almost every neighborhood also has a slope or two suitable for the skiers who are content with something less than a wild flight down the side of a mountain and many find fun just beyond their backyards.

The city park program has as a major purpose the protection of the children of the city and their main object aside from providing the chance for recreation is to keep the youngsters off the sloping streets of the city.

Many parents who join their youngsters in this outdoor sport help along this purpose and such facilities as those at Lawton Park make coasting as much fun for the adults as for the children.

Assemblyman to Ask Pay Raise for Troopers

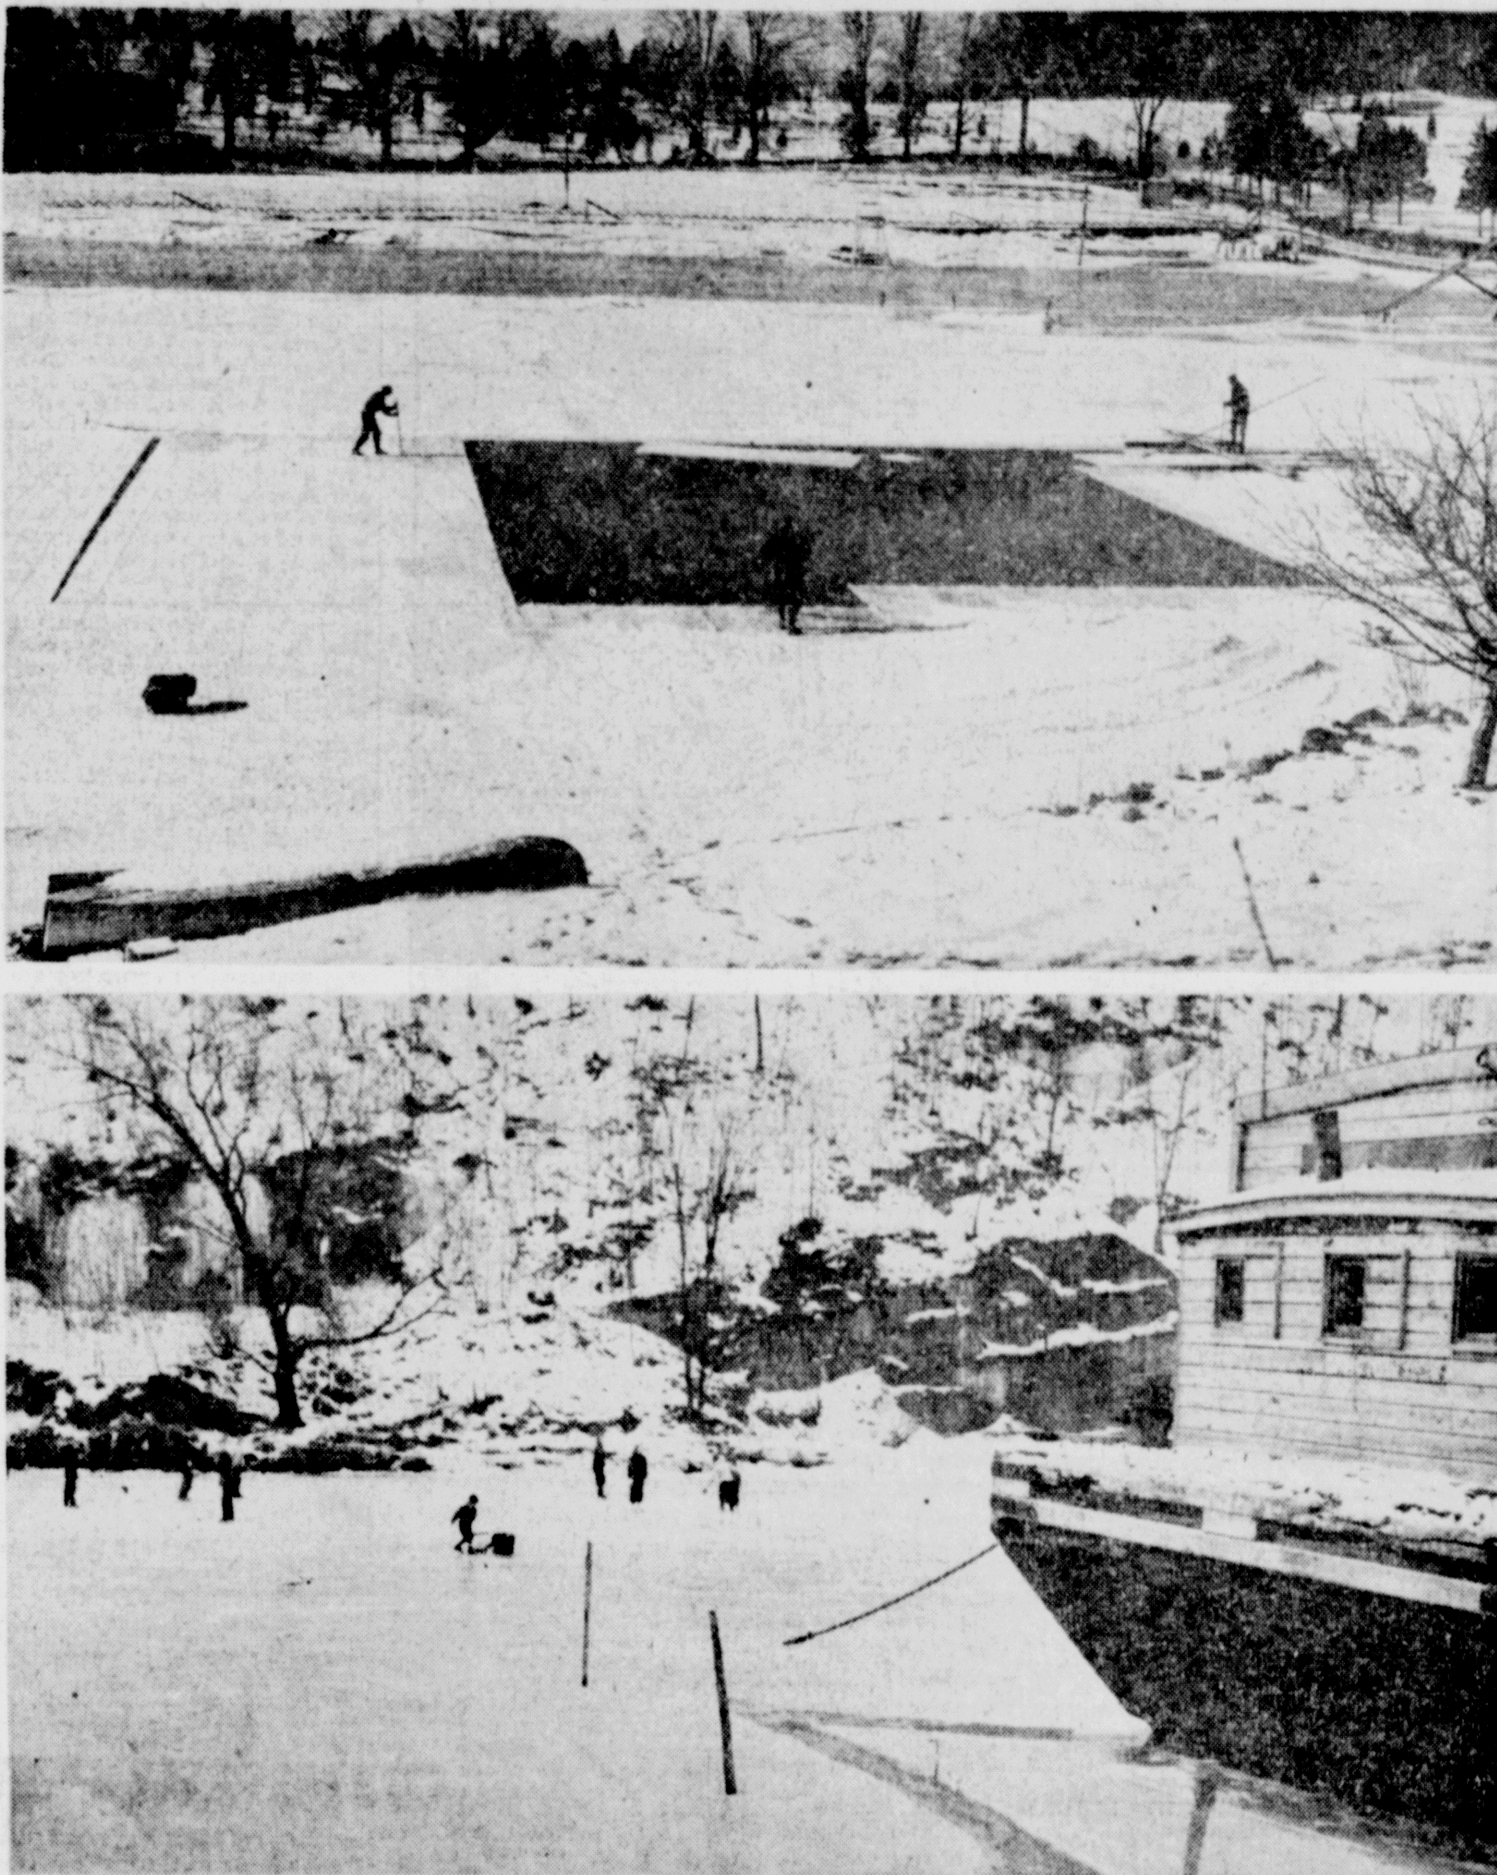

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25 (P)—Assemblyman Fred Hammer, Buffalo Democrat, plans to ask the legislature to give a $200 per year raise to State Troopers with five years' service.

Hammer said last night he also would introduce a bill to grant a $250 increment to those troopers assigned to the division's bureau of criminal investigation.

Troopers now receive $900 for their first year of service with automatic $200 increase for the next five years, as a maximum of $1,900. Non-commissioned officers get a $2,100 maximum.

"Hundreds of troopers have been in service 15 to 20 years without having received any additional compensation after their first six years," he said.

Winter Brings Fun in Outdoors

The cold weather of the early part of the week made it possible for workmen at Spring Lake on Lucas avenue to start the harvest of natural ice. Top are workmen sawing the ice by hand and guiding it to the escalator for storage in the house. The ice varied in thickness. Ice of this depth made work and play both on the Rondout creek. Children and grown ups found the creek good for skating and boatmen found it necessary to cut canals around the barges, as shown in the second photo. The new toboggan and sleigh run at Lawton Park was opened during the week and by the looks of the crowd about to start down the run in the third picture it must be good. After a few rides down the run in the brisk evening air the fireplace in the log cabin at the park is a welcome place to warm your hands.

Social Security Talk, Film at Moran School

"It is one of the requirements of the Social Security law that payroll records be kept on file by employers for a period of four years," declared Charles E. Burke, manager of the Kingston field office of the Social Security Board, who within the past week gave two lectures to the students of the Moran School of Business, Burgevin Building. Sound moving pictures on Social Security machinery were also shown.

Each wage earner is permitted to compare his record of earnings for the past four years with the records maintained in the Social Security office. In this connection, said the speaker, it is a remarkable fact that of all wages reported to date, fully 98.9 per cent have been correctly credited in Baltimore.

Mr. Burke placed particular stress on points of importance to those entering upon careers as wage earners. "Obtain a social security number and have it with you whenever you apply for employment," he urged. Employers are caused much inconvenience and annoyance by those who through carelessness are unable to produce a number promptly.

Bringing out the necessity of identification by number, Mr. Burke explained that the social security files at Baltimore show anywhere from two to twenty thousand persons with the same identical name. The same number is used for both federal and state reports.

The government maintains a field office in the central post office building here in Kingston. To this office should be taken all questions and problems in connection with this matter of social security numbers—cases of persons who have been assigned two numbers, or of those who have lost their numbers, etc. Duplicate numbers may be obtained within four or five days.

Annual Catholic Charities Appeal

Will Be Conducted From March 23 to April 2

Archbishop Francis J. Spellman has set the period March 23 to April 2, inclusive, for the 22nd annual appeal of the Catholic Charities of the New York Archdiocese, and in a special letter has asked each pastor to "do all in your power to make the campaign a great success."

Announcement of the date and preliminary plans for the conduct of the appeal came yesterday from the Right Rev. Monsignor Robert F. Keegan, P. A., executive director, and secretary for charities to the Archbishop.

Lecture Sunday, March 23, will mark the start of an intensive house-to-house canvass of the Catholic population of the Archdiocese by approximately 15,000 lay workers in 374 parishes in the 10 counties of the Archdiocese, continuing to April 2. In the meantime the Special Gifts Committee of the Archbishop's Committee of the Laity under the General Chairmanship of former Governor Alfred E. Smith and the Executive Chairmanship of John A. Coleman, and the Women's Committee headed by Mrs. Douglas Gibbons, will organize a general solicitation among special and trade and industry groups to augment the parish effort, it was announced.

"In looking ahead for 1941," Monsignor Keegan said in announcing the date for the Catholic Charities Appeal, "we cannot measure our horizons by past experience."

"America today is committed to a defense program on a scale never before envisioned short of active war. It is not conceivable that under the social, economic and moral dislocations incident to the national defense program either public or private agencies will be able, now or in the immediate future, to foresee and plan for all situations and conditions which have to be met involving problems of health, relief, family solidarity and threats to the way of life of the individual."

"If in normal times of world peace new conditions continually arise for both public and private agencies to cope with, how much more likely is it that in the days ahead new and disturbing problems will multiply many times both in kind and in urgency?"

"Of one thing we may be sure—our problems will increase rather than decrease and our dependence upon the generosity of our thousands of friends will have to grow proportionately."

NEW LICENSE PLATES

The expiration date on the 1940 license plates is February 1, and automobiles may not continue in operation after midnight, January 31, unless they are equipped with the new plates. New 1941 license plates must be attached to cars on the highways on or after February 1.

The automobile bureau has been issuing plates for over a month and thousands have been secured, but there are many more cars now in operation that have not the new plates.

There is still time to secure the new plates without inconvenience if the matter is attended to at once. In order to avoid prosecution new plates must be attached to cars operating on the highways on and after the first of February.

RUSSIAN FRIENDSHIP

Now, it seems, we're going to be friends with Russia again. International politics, like the domestic kind, make strange bedfellows. The United States government has been reported as lifting its "moral embargo" so that airplanes and air equipment may be exported to the Soviet Union again. There are hints of closer association in other ways between our State Department and the Kremlin at Moscow.

Newspaper men at Washington are guessing that Russia is willing to play fair with Uncle Sam now, because Stalin and his outfit are worried about German and Japanese expansion. It may be that our two nations can cooperate in some ways to their mutual advantage. And if our government by a few practical concessions and polite gestures can help along a split between the dictators, that is so much to the good.

Another factor in the situation is that, as Walter Duranty reports, Russia had a fine harvest last year and is in much better shape economically and industrially than she has been. Prosperity may be making the Reds more tolerable as neighbors.

But we keep our fingers crossed. Especially when we read such propaganda as this, which came from Moscow the other day: "The U.S.S.R. is the bulwark of the small, weak nations who alone cannot secure their independence and national existence." We remember too well how Russia "bulwarked" Finland and the other little Baltic countries last year. And we certainly don't want to have any of our airplanes and other military equipment getting to Hitler by courtesy of Stalin.

WASTED COFFEE

At a time when so many people in this crazy world are deprived of the normal comforts of life, it is depressing and rather shocking to read of another wholesale burning of coffee in Brazil. In the last ten years the growers in that country have burned about 70,000,000 bags of coffee just to keep it off the market and maintain the price.

The burned coffee berries might have made more than 500 billion cups of coffee. That would be hundreds of cups for everybody on earth old enough to drink coffee, if it could be passed around.

Surely there could be ways devised to make such a blessing, and others that might be mentioned, available to ease the hardships of life, instead of wantonly destroying them. Some time, when problems of distribution have been better solved, our posterity will think this was a crazy and wicked thing to do, and perhaps they will be right.

PEACE AND PACIFISTS

The Christian pacifist movement is said to be stronger in the United States today than it was in 1917. This refers to "organized pacifism" in the churches, as found by a survey made by the Institute for Propaganda Analysis. Most of the churches ask non-combatant duty for the conscientious objector. The Quakers, who ask exemption from fighting as a matter of conscience, have always been willing to perform any kind of service, however difficult, in any place, however near the front or other danger zone.

Churches such as the Friends, the Methodists, and others stress pacifism as a central part of their faith. There are also many preachers and church members in non-pacifist churches who are themselves pacifists. The survey sets the total at 450,000, only one per cent of this country's church membership. They constitute, however, a "dynamic minority," and most of them do not change their views with the change of events. The attitude must be respected by others who disagree with it.

There are, however, other shades and types of pacifism. Some, no doubt, are merely negative, opposed to war but not active in creating a world in which peace is possible. History may find them partly responsible for today's horrible wars.

PEACE FORMULA

Americans keep asking each other anxiously how we can keep out of the war. There can't be any guaranteed formula, but the nearest approach to it seems to be this one, from an Ohio minister.

"The only way to keep war from coming over here is to keep it over there."

And how are we to do that? "By aid without stint to Britain." Britain herself promises to turn the trick if we send her the stuff.

While Americans resist Communist and Fascist groups organized in this country, let them not neglect to give some wholesome attention to the wholly native Ku Klux Klan which is again gaining in numbers.

An obvious difference between the democracies and the dictatorships is that the latter don't have any inaugurations.

X-RAY SHOWS CONDITION OF GALL BLADDER

When the physician, after examination of the patient and asking questions, informs him that he would like him to have an X-ray of the gall bladder, the patient may wonder if X-ray examination is just the taking of a photograph, nothing more. The patient takes a dye by mouth or it is injected into a vein. The dye is given at 9 o'clock at night and the next morning at 9 o'clock (12 hours later) without breakfast, an X-ray film of the gall bladder is taken. Another film is taken at 12 noon (15 hours after dye was taken) and the patient is given fat in some form such as an egg nog with cream or a glass of milk with cream. A third film is taken at 1 o'clock, or an hour later.

If gall bladder is normal the morning (12 hour) film will have a smooth, pear shape shadow, well rounded. One hour after the fat meal, that is at 1 o'clock, the shadow is contracted, smaller in all directions.

A healthy gall bladder, then, should be smaller in size one hour after a fat meal, because the fat has stimulated it to contract or empty itself. If, however, one hour after the fat meal, the gall bladder shows little or no signs of becoming smaller, then disease, blockage or spasm of the tube into which the gall bladder empties is present. If there are gall stones present, the contour or roundness of the gall bladder may appear to be irregular.

By observation of the patient, and getting his history as to pain, distress, mental and emotional disturbances, diet and stools, together with the results of the dye and X-ray examination, the physician and surgeon are in a position to advise as to medical and diet treatment or operation.

Is this dye and X-ray test always right? Figures from large hospitals show the condition found at operation agrees with the X-ray findings in about nine cases out of ten.

If, then, gall bladder trouble is present, diet and medicine have been of no avail, and your physician needs further information before advising operation, it is gratifying to know that he can be helped in his decision by this simple X-ray dye test.

New York, (AP)—All that burns in the incendiary bomb now falling on England and Germany is metal.

The specifications, complete, are given in "Technology Review," published by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

These bombs are known as electron bombs because they are mainly a shell of electron metal, the name of an alloy 80 per cent magnesium and 20 per cent hardening metal.

Inside is a little thermite—aluminum and a metallic oxide—and also a little metallic detonator to set the thermite on fire at the impact. Outside is an iron tail to steer the falling bomb. Everything burns except the iron detonator and tail. The thermite flames about 50 seconds at 5,400 degrees. This ignites the magnesium, which then burns for a few minutes at 2,700 degrees.

These bombs range from two to 50 pounds in weight. The large ones are used only for special objectives like factories. The two-pounders are what the civilians have to stand.

A bomber can carry 2,000 of the latter. Ten dropped at once will spread to scatter over 10,000 square yards yet at the whole 2,000 dropped on a city, military authorities expect not more than 150 to fall where they will start fires.

A water spray will "put them out" in about a minute by making the magnesium burn up much faster. Powdered talc and dry sand smother a bomb.

CUCKOO!

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

As we look back to the year 1915 many pleasant memories are evoked. That was the year that the Kingston high school was dedicated and became a part of Kingston's school system. The political pot was boiling that year for the Democrats had selected Ernest W. Kearney as the candidate for mayor and Joseph A. Sheppard for alderman-at-large.

Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., had again received the Republican nomination to succeed himself, and Walter P. Crane was chosen as the Republican candidate for alderman-at-large.

That year the Bull Moose party was still active and at a meeting of the leaders of the party in the office of Charles T. Coutant on Fair street the party named Mayor Canfield and Mr. Crane as the party's candidates for mayor and alderman-at-large.

Both Mr. Canfield and Mr. Crane were elected in November.

The year 1915 also marked the appointment of the Rev. John P. Neumann as pastor of St. Peter's Church on Wurts street. Father Neumann was tendered a reception by the members of the parish in the school hall on Tuesday evening, August 30, of that year.

Father Neumann's assistant was the Rev. George Wermuth.

The organization known as the D.D.D.'s (doctors, druggists and dentists) was also an active one in 1915, and on Thursday afternoon, September 2, held the ninth annual clam bake and outing on the bathing beach at Kingston Point.

The bake was prepared by "Pop" Parsells, who was widely known for the excellence of his bakes.

The bake followed the holding of the annual meeting at which time Dr. C. H. Bishop, the well known dentist, was elected president to succeed Benjamin W. Johnston, the Strand druggist.

The other officers elected were: Dr. Fred Snyder as vice president; William McBride as secretary, and Dr. B. W. Maben as treasurer.

The D.D.D.'s were an active organization for a number of years. Each year they held an annual outing, which was attended by nearly a hundred members of the three professions. In late years, however, nothing has been noted of the activities of the organization.

It was also the year that the dream of a bridge across the Rondout creek was beginning to materialize for the supervisors were taking steps to acquire the properties needed for the bridge approaches.

It was not until a few years later, however, that the bridge construction was actually begun.

Gregory Says Up-to-Date Plumbing Aids Housework

While up-to-date plumbing makes housework easier, modern heating eliminates drudgery and provides an even flow of healthful warmth, said Plumbing Inspector Charles H. Gregory today. He added that automatic heating is easily one of the most significant developments of the generation.

"Not only can we have effortless firing and highly accurate control of temperature in our homes," said Mr. Gregory, "but everything entering into the heating plant has been vastly improved in appearance and performance."

Mr. Gregory said that for hot water plants, new and old, there is a small but powerful little electric pump which mechanically forces the circulation of water to all radiators. Under the control of an aquastat, the boiler is kept full of hot water. When the thermostat calls for heat, the pump forces it from the boiler to the radiators with the speed of an express train, he said.

Other gifts were presented to the matron by relatives and friends. Roosevelt Drove 40 Miles to Show How Close Are Anglo-U. S. Ties Regarding Cooperation
By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1941)

Washington, Jan. 25.—When the President of the United States drops everything in busy times like these and drives 40 miles in the rain to greet a new ambassador on his arrival at a nearby port, it is evidence of an intention on the part of the government of the United States to exhibit something more than courtesy.

The dispatch by the government of Great Britain of a member of the cabinet as ambassador to the United States would not of itself warrant such extraordinary attention, but Mr. Roosevelt is anxious to show the world how closely knit are the ties between Britain and America today. There are very few opportunities in wartime to manifest such friendliness, especially because of the legal requirements of neutrality and the obligations imposed on a neutral government. But the President presumably felt that in going to meet Lord Halifax, the gesture would not be lost on the people of Europe who are scrutinizing every act and word of the American government to determine how strongly is the sympathy of the United States for the cause of Britain.

Just as the British people are impressed by such incidents, the German press is impressed by things that happen in the United States which seem to be to their advantage. The Associated Press reports from Berlin, for instance, that "authorized German sources" said "hats off to Charles Lindbergh for the courage shown" in his testimony before the House foreign affairs committee in Washington.

The complete coincidence of the Lindbergh viewpoint with that of Berlin is naturally gratifying to the Nazi authorities, who do not even care if the world knows it. Certainly Colonel Lindbergh is hardly testifying for the benefit of Berlin, but because of his own strong convictions on the subject. Yet what he is saying and what others are doing to block the "lend and lease" bill is of immense satisfaction to the Nazi government.

It is a matter of the greatest importance to the Nazis that the "lend and lease" bill should be defeated, and if that is not possible, then that its passage should be delayed and its terms weakened so as to render little aid to Britain. The Nazis are just as interested in preventing the passage of the bill as they are in slowing up American defense production. Agents of the Nazi government do not have to be told by their

Today the Nazi strategy is still to retard if not weaken America's program of becoming the "arsenal of democracy." As long as the powerful United States refrains from furnishing weapons of war to the weaker countries of the world, the Nazi government can rejoice. And the efforts of the Nazis to keep America from helping weak countries while Herr Hitler reigns supreme are by no means being abated.

Mrs. Kathryn B. Hays
Entertains 150 Guests

One of the largest private social functions of the season was the musicale and tea given by Mrs. Kathryn Boice Hays of 110 Fair street, at the crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday afternoon, when she delightfully entertained 150 of her friends.

The program was of carefully arranged and interesting vocal and instrumental numbers presented by Estelle Rogers, soprano; Earle Hummel, violinist, and Zaven Melik, bass-baritone. The three artists and Miriam Pitts Pitt, accompanist for Miss Rogers, are all former residents of this city. Mr. Melik's accompanist was W. Whiting Fredenburgh of this city. Betty Roberge Weir of Albany accompanied Mr. Hummel. All the numbers were delightfully received by the guests.

Mr. Melik opened the program with "America," and continued with "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," by Johnson, and "Song of the Viking Guest," by Korakoff. His other group consisted of "The Two Grenadiers," by Schumann; "Mefisto's Song of the Flea," by Mussorgsky; and "The Song of the Volga Boatman." As encores, Mr. Melik sang "Requiem," by Homer and the sailing song, "Nancy Lee."

Earle Hummel of the Morris-Hummel Conservatory of Music, Albany, played "Meditation" from "Thais" by Massenet; "Minute," by Kreisler; "Hora Staccato," by Dinicu-Helfitz; "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," by Foster, and "Dance of the Goblins," by Bazini. His encores were "Melodie," by Dawes, and "An Old Refrain," by Kreisler.

Miss Rogers sang "Happy Song," by Del Riego; "Weeping Mary," by Burleigh; and "Love Has Wings," by Rogers. Her second group consisted of "My Lover is a Weaver," by Hildach; "Thou Art the Night Wind," by Gaul, and "Yesterday and Today," by Spross. As encores, Miss Rogers sang "Lady Moon," by Edwards and "Love's in My Heart," by Woodman.

As a finale Miss Rogers sang Gounod's "Ave Maria," with Mr. Hummel playing the obligato and Mrs. Pitt accompanying.

Tea was served in the lounge of the hotel.

DIVORCED WOMAN CONSULTS
EMILY POST ABOUT USING
HYPHEN BETWEEN NAMES OF TWO HUSBANDS

Would be Shocking to Most People, She Is Told, But There Are Unusual Circumstances

It does sometimes happen that a woman whose second marriage has ended in divorce, does—with warranted approval—take back her first husband's name. But never have I heard of combining the two husband's names the way the writer of the following letter wants to do. She says, "I have been married twice—my first husband having died. I have two children by that marriage. Then I married again and this second marriage has just ended in the divorce courts. I have one child by this marriage. For the sake of the two sets of children I would like to combine both marriage names, if such a thing is possible. In other words, call myself Mrs. Maiden-name Jones-Blank, using the two names in proper sequence, with the hyphen between. Is such an idea beyond the realm of good taste?"

I think it would be shocking to most people—even to the least reactionary. But in your particular case there is obvious excuse for taking back your first husband's name in the fact that you have twice as many children who also bear this same name. (I would suggest that you consult a lawyer as to whether it is necessary in your state to get permission of the court to do this.) The child of the second marriage would nevertheless continue to use his father's name. Or at least I think it most unfair to any man to change his child's name unless his behavior has brought public disgrace upon that name.

One Present From Whole Family

Dear Mrs. Post: Every now and again our entire family wants to send one present from the seven of us. Every time there comes up the question of how to write the card that is enclosed with the gift. There are five children—all grown, all living at home and all unmarried. In the past, when we all contributed this way to one present, one of us listed all the names on the card. But it does make a lot of writing for one card. Father says it must look something like a membership list. But how else can all of us be included except by means of the opprobrious "and family?"

Old-fashioned Cruets

Dear Mrs. Post: Are the silver cruet stands to hold bottles of sauces and condiments no longer in good taste?

Answer: They are not in bad taste, but rather out of fashion. This is probably because so few hostesses mix the salad dressing on the table as they used to. But for those specialists who make a ritual of mixing salad on the table (or the old-fashioned way) a cruet stand is certainly suitable, just as it always was.

All busy towns have parking problems. In no case is the ideal solution reached. The ideal solution would be to so arrange things that everyone can park his car in front of the place to which he wants to go.

"Labor conquers all" used to be a common class motto.

A gentleman was stranded at a railway station, on his way home to the country, in a heavy rain. Seeing a car at the roadside, he got inside for shelter, hoping to get a lift when the driver turned up. After a little wait the car began to move very slowly and in the direction he wanted to go, although the engine was not running and the driver did not appear.

However, the car kept well in the road and eventually reached the man's corner, so he jumped out. Then he saw a man about to get in, but warning strange about this car—the engine isn't running. The stranger replied: "Don't I know it, I've been pushing the blamed thing for the past two miles."

Cleveland, Ohio, had a pedestrian week. Generally, a pedestrian isn't honored until he lies still among the flowers and his friends stop by his side a moment to murmur: "Doesn't he look natural?"

Pardon us, ladies: Prospective Employer—Are you an expert accountant? Applicant—Yes, sir! Prospective Employer—Your written references seem to be all right, but tell me something about yourself.

Applicant—Well, my wife kept a household account for 30 days. One night after dinner I sat down and in less than an hour I found out how much we owed the grocer.

Prospective Employer (with a glad smile)—Hang up your hat and coat. The job is yours.

WARNING: When an automobile hurls, somebody usually gets hurt.

Make your explanation exact: College Girl—Take an egg, make a perforation in the base with some suitable pointed instrument, and a corresponding one in the apex. Then, by applying the lips to one aperture and forcibly exhaling the breath, discharge the shell of its contents.

Farmer's Wife (who was listening)—Well, well. It beats all how folks do things nowadays. When I was a girl, we just made a hole in each end and blew.

That automobiles may eventually speed 150 miles an hour over specially constructed roads is easier to explain and understand than why they should.

Gushing Visitor—And has your baby learned to talk yet?

Proud Parent—Oh, my, yes! We're teaching him to keep quiet now.

Careful walking is as important as careful driving. The highest death rate of the various classes of auto accidents is that in which the car strikes a pedestrian. And the fatalities are not to the autoists.

Daughter—Oh, Daddy dear, how grand it is to be alive! The world is too good for anything! Why isn't everyone happy?

Daddy—Who is he this time?

A country pupil wrote the following "howler" in a recent test paper:

"A minister without portfolio is a clergyman who doesn't need notes in a pulpit."

Young Woman—What's the penalty for bigamy, anyhow? Lawyer Friend—Two mother-in-laws.

The mind as well as the body needs exercise to keep in trim.

Now you know: Relish Maker—I have picked Walla Walla for our new factory site.

Friend—But why Walla Walla? Relish Maker—Well, it sounds like a good place to make chow chow.

Magic Spring

By ALLEN EPPES

YESTERDAY: Polly and David have quarreled, although neither wanted to. But Margo has gone out for David in a big way, and although David is sure Warren McNeill will win her in the end, he cannot deny that Margo has tried to cut in on Polly a little. But when David got home he had a bigger surprise—his young cousin Peter, crippled from infantile paralysis, has succeeded in taking a few steps.

Peter Walks

PETER was sitting up in bed, his eyes wide and shining.

"You—what?" "I walked," Peter said. "I— took six steps without the brace! That swimming pool's curing me, Cousin David!"

"Gosh!" David said. He sat down upon the side of the bed. He pulled the boy toward him. "Gosh, that's swell!"

"Shall I show you?" Peter asked, eagerly, kicking back the covers. "Shall I show you, Cousin David?"

"No, Peter, not tonight," David said. "It's after midnight. Go to sleep like a good kid. You can show me in the morning."

"Okay," the boy said. "But I— thought you'd want to see me do it."

David grinned. "All right, Peter, you do your stuff. Let me see you get out of bed. He held to David's hand until he got his balance. Then he started off. One step—two—three—four—five—six—seven. Then once more the small boy toppled over. David ran to him.

"Oh, boy!" he said. "You did do it! You did! Seven steps, instead of six."

Peter looked up at him. This time he wasn't sobbing. He was smiling—happy, his face was flushed.

"I fell," he said, "but not like the—the other time."

"No," said David, "not a bit like the other time."

"Shall I walk back to the bed for you, Cousin David?"

"You, Peter, you mustn't overdo it. You must take it easy," David lifted the boy with him. "A little each day," he said. "Eight steps the next time—then nine—and so on and on."

Peter snuggled down beneath the sheet. Then he reached up and hugged David tightly to him.

"I'll be riding that horse yet, won't I?" he said. "Just like my Great-great-great-Something-or-Other."

"You bet!" said David. "Go to sleep now—Peter."

He turned off the light. And as he went out of the room, walking very softly, he once more thought of the "magic" which Polly had mentioned. Or maybe Peter was improving because he had made up his mind he wouldn't go on being a crippled little boy. Plucky little kid, that small Peter Wiley.

David went on into his own room.

"I reckon Polly would make a darned good doctor's wife," he told the four walls there about it. "She'd be able to help in a lot of ways—after all, her experience caring for ailing relatives."

He drew a deep sigh, and got into bed.

Thinking of doctors reminded him that he had promised to take Warren McNeill to see old Doctor Ben the next day.

He stretched out his long legs until his toes touched the footboard, and tried to go to sleep. But this was difficult. He kept remembering the things Polly had said to him on their way home from the picnic.

He flung himself over upon his stomach, and thrust his hand under the pillow, his favorite way of sleeping.

But even then he couldn't drift off into unconsciousness.

He found himself thinking about Margo's kiss underneath the wisteria arbor, the way she had clung to him.

Could Polly be right? Was Margo in love with him? The very thought carried conceit, he felt. It was hard to tell about girls. Of course he had got a kick out of kissing Margo, out of being with her, but all along he had been telling himself that she simply liked men, liked being with them—and that since there wasn't much material to work on there in Ardendale, she had picked him.

But now he wondered—and wondered very seriously.

A specialist for Peter. The boy well and strong, and walking as though there had never been anything the matter with his leg. Freddy's Polly flourishing, making money, acting like Peter.

On and on—David's thoughts rushing pell-mell here and there. Driving him—Worrying him—Until at last he fell asleep from sheer weariness. . . .

Warren's Problem

IT WAS late afternoon two days later when Warren McNeill came out to the lumber plant. He found David just preparing to leave for home.

"How about driving out to the Inn?" Warren asked.

"It's all right with me," David replied. "I've had a tough day of it, and a swim would go good."

"I'd like one myself," Warren said. "Shall we pick up Peter at the house, and take him with us?"

"Sure!" said David. "He's taken quite a fancy to you. He'll want to tell you about how he walked eight steps yesterday."

"Good kid! And I want to tell you about my talk with Doctor Ben."

"Is he going to sell out to you?" David asked, as they left the lumber yard.

"No."

"Say, I'm sorry."

"Oh, it's not that bad," said Warren. "He made me an offer."

"He did? What sort of offer?"

"He'll sell me half interest in his practice," Warren explained. He chuckled. "The old fellow says he feels responsible for several of the oldsters in town, and thinks he ought to stay in practice until they all die off, or he does."

"Sounds just like him!" David laughed. "Are you going to go through with it?"

"I think so," Warren said. "I'm going to have a talk with Margo this evening. I'd like to get her reaction to the offer."

David said nothing to that. They walked along some distance in silence.

"Love's a funny thing," Warren commented presently.

"How do you mean?" David asked.

"A man like me falling in love with a girl like Margo," Warren replied. "She's probably not in the least fitted to become a doctor's wife, and yet here I am hanging around waiting for her to make up her mind."

"Will what she says to you influence you as to settling down here as an end?"

"Probably. And then again, maybe not. After all, if I feel there's need of another doctor here, I oughtn't to let Margo's feelings in the matter influence me too much, ought I?"

"You're the doctor!" David grinned.

"By all rights," Warren went on. "I should have fallen in love with a girl more like Polly. Now there's a girl who would in all probability make a swell wife for a doctor."

Then why not fall in love with her?" said David.

Warren gave him a quick look. "One can't just fall in love like that, my boy," he said. "Besides, Polly's in love with you."

"Don't be too sure of that."

"Well, aren't you sure?"

"What's happened to change you?"

"Polly, herself. She's developed some odd ideas here of late."

"What about?"

"Changing Girls."

"About us. She's got an idea now that I oughtn't to marry her, now that Peter's come to live with me, and her Aunt Susan is still something of a responsibility. She feels it might hold me down—sort of keep my nose to the proverbial grindstone, so to speak."

"I see. But how do you feel about it?"

"Just as I've always felt," said David. "I've been planning to marry Polly ever since we were school kids."

Warren nodded slowly. "We seem to be on the spot, David—you and I."

"Something like that, yes."

"Maybe we ought to try what I saw them do in a movie."

"What's that?"

"Exchange girls," Warren smiled. "Maybe if Polly thought you were switching over to Margo, she'd perk up. And maybe it would work the same way with Margo."

He shrugged. "Women are built with strange minds," he went on. "The doctor who gets so he can analyze and diagnose and dissect a woman's mind has made his fortune."

"I reckon you're right," said David. "Darned if I can understand 'em."

"You've got plenty of company along that line," said Warren. They took a short cut to the Wiley cottage. David got the car from the barn.

Peter came running out of the house.

"Where you going, Cousin David?" he wanted to know.

"Out for a swim, Doctor Warren and I."

"Of course, I was going to invite you, but you didn't give me a chance."

Peter climbed into the car, and took his place between the two men.

"Gee, us three fellows, swimming together!" he said. "And no girls around!"

"That reminds me," said David. "Maybe we ought to stop and get Polly."

"She's not at home," Peter said. "She went to work."

"Work?" said David. "What doing?"

"She's helping out down at the millinery store. Miss Angle sent for her. I went over to see if Polly wanted to go out to the Inn and do some work, and her Aunt Susan told me about it."

"Then that means we do go womanless!" said David. He glanced at Warren. "Unless you'd like to ask Margo."

"Not this time, no," Warren said. "Like Peter, I think it would be fun to make it a stag party."

"What's that?" Peter asked.

"A party for men only," Warren replied.

"Gee, that's the kind of party I'd like all the time," said Peter. Then, after a moment's thought, he added: "Except when Polly and I have parties together."

"I think you rather like Polly," said Warren teasingly.

ness, and the ability to see another person's viewpoint. This, he said, is particularly necessary in relationships between different races, creeds or social groups.

A sense of balance, was the third requisite needed for the bridge builder. This can be gained by the Christian religion which imparts sanity and poise of spirit.

At the business session annual reports were given by Miss M. Jean Estey, general secretary, Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, treasurer, and Miss Caroline Mullin, Girl Reserve secretary, and eight new directors were elected to the board.

The general secretary's report for the year 1940 follows:

Report of the General Secretary

No review of the work of the Kingston Y.W.C.A. would be anything but fragmentary if we did not take into consideration the fact that we are not merely a local organization but a part of a national and world movement. The Young Women's Christian Association, which has now passed its 85th birthday, is active in 63 countries of the world and counts on its membership roll some of the most outstanding women of these countries. As the largest women's international organization, it plays a real part in helping to create a better understanding and friendship among people of different creeds and nationalities, which is surely one of the sorest needs in the chaotic world of today. The emphases adopted by the national Y.W.C.A. at its 1938 convention and reaffirmed at the 1940 convention are the Christian purpose, democracy, and the building of a world community, all of which should form the goal of our local program. The Kingston association shares the common purpose, namely:

"To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life, those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share His love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God."

This affiliation with the national Y.W.C.A. is not only of inspirational, but also of very practical help to our local branch. A national staff of specialists in the field of Y.W.C.A. group work furnish program resource material and are in a position to act in an advisory capacity on problems of policy and practice. Three delegates from Kingston attended the 1940 national convention at Atlantic City, the staff members have attended training institutes and round tables, and club members have taken advantage of the regional conferences.

Administration

The work of our association is administered under the direction of a board of 24 directors, one-third of which are elected each year by the membership for a three-year term. The board elects the officers of the association and from this board are also appointed the chairmen of the standing committees. The board met monthly throughout the year with a special "setting up" program in September and in addition to considering reports and transacting business in connection with the work of the local association, gave some time to consideration of problems related to the underlying purpose of the Y.W.C.A.

The directors for the year 1940 were:

Mrs. A. Noble Graham, president; Mrs. Harry B. Walker, vice-president; Miss Mary Staples, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, treasurer; Mrs. Doris Monroe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ernest Althouse, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Joseph Craig, Mrs. Theron L. Culver, Mrs. Harry Fleming, Mrs. Leonard Flagg, Mrs. Levan Haver, Mrs. William C. Kingman, Mrs. M. Donald Lane, Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre, Miss Katherine Millard, Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Mrs. George Ross, Miss Margaret Schuetz, Mrs. John B. Sterley, Mrs. Myron Teller, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Adam C. Thiel, Mrs. Henry Terpenning, Jr.

There is also a board of seven trustees who are responsible for the safe investment of the trust funds and whose advice is frequently sought on matters of financial policy. Trustees for the year were:

William C. Kingman, chairman; Dr. A. S. Cole, Harry Ensign, Roger Loughran, Robert R. Rodie, Al Staples and B. C. Vanlengen. The staff for the year were Miss Jean Estey, general secretary; Miss Carolyn Mullin, girl reserve secretary; Miss Martha Martin, office secretary. During the early part of the year, the association was fortunate in having a New Paltz student on part time who was paid by the federal government under the National Youth Administration. Beginning November 1, Miss Waneta Watrous was engaged to act as a grade school club adviser and assist in recreation work since it seemed impossible to secure sufficient volunteer service.

The Y.W.C.A. has continued to rent the first and basement floors of the Mechanics building and Mrs. Adam Thiel has been chairman of the maintenance committee. It has been possible to manage with almost no new equipment during the year, and a small amount of repairs. We were given a very fine Chambers gas stove in return for promoting a two-day cooking demonstration in the gymnasium. Our busy schedule for outside meetings except on rare occasions, but we have rented the use of a club room to Miss Reeves during the morning period on school days where she conducts a private primary school.

Finances

The budget of the association is administered by a finance committee which during the past year was headed by Mrs. John B. Sterley. The committee, assisted by a large group of the members, conducted the annual campaign in May with a goal of $7,500, which is the minimum amount required to carry on the work of the organization. However, only $4,634.25 was brought in from 1,212 subscriptions and it was necessary to use not only the interest but some of the principal created through the years by means of special gifts and generous legacies. While hoping to keep all of this special fund for our own building at some future time, the committee does not believe that the present program should be sacrificed. There is a great need for further educating the community to the belief that such Christian character-building agencies as the Y.W.C.A. are a vital, stabilizing force and are thus especially worthy of support during periods of depression and chaos.

Membership

There are two types of membership in the association, club membership and general membership in the organization itself. Up on this latter group falls the real responsibility of administration of the policy to make membership an endorsement of the Christian purpose rather than a requirement for attendance at activities or merely a method of financial support. Acting upon this theory, the membership committee during the past year decided to omit the annual roll call and endeavor through an educational process in the clubs and through publicity to stress the responsibility of voluntary enrollment of members. However, this method was not entirely successful and many still appeared to await personal solicitation, so that during January of the new year, it has been necessary to do some follow-up work. The general membership for the last fiscal year was 465 and in addition there were 1,104 enrolled in the various clubs of the association.

Several programs for the general membership were arranged during the year, the first being the annual meeting and dinner in January. The speaker on this occasion was Dr. William Alderson of Hartford, Conn., who gave a most inspiring message on "The Fork of the Road." Other events were a winter friendship luncheon, a fall membership rally, and several open club programs. The Sunday evening world fellowship service in December at which Miss Mary Dingman, world renowned speaker, talked on "The Search for a New World Order," was a meeting which we were particularly proud to have sponsored and only wished that a much larger number of people had attended. The collection on this occasion was for the benefit of the important refugee and relief work which the Y.W.C.A. is carrying on abroad, and to which fund the Board of Directors had previously made a special contribution.

Y.W.C.A. Clubs

Because of the diversity of age and interests among those who come to the Y.W.C.A., we operate largely on the club plan, the different groups being on the basis of age, school, race, or occupation. None of the clubs have a "closed" membership and new members are always more than welcome.

The Women's Club

Our Married Women's Club during the year changed its name to the Women's Club in order to welcome those who might not otherwise qualify for membership. This group has had a busy year, meeting two Thursdays each month, and their membership grew to 116 during the spring season with 26 new members joining in the fall. They are an active service group, making more than a hundred dresses for the Christmas Cheer Committee, adopting 10 children at the Industrial Home, and cooperating in other civic and emergency projects. Many members do active work in the Y.W.C.A., having a large working division in the Y budget drive and making a generous club subscription toward it. Their programs have included talks and discussions on civic and educational topics, a homemaker demonstration, and a social evening for the club. They have had two delightful musical programs arranged by their composer-member, Mrs. Raymond Gross, the latter being combined with a Christmas tea at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Ward Brigham was president during the spring and Mrs. Arthur Coligan during the latter part of the year.

The Business Girls' Club

Our very active Business Girls' Club is affiliated with the National Business and Professional Girls' Clubs of the Y.W.C.A., a connection which gives added interest to their program as they join with girls of other cities in working on problems that confront the world today. They have met weekly on Wednesdays for supper and a program, except during the summer when they met twice each month for out-of-door activities. They have endeavored to have a well-balanced program, with one meeting each month devoted to service work, one to "interest groups" one to social affairs, and one for their educational programs. Much emphasis has been put upon the service work and the members have sewed and knitted for the Red Cross, Bundles for Britain, have remembered the patients of the TB Hospital on their birthdays, given 500 boxes of candy for the Christmas Cheer project as well as packing 1,200 additional boxes; they have also had a working division in the Y.W.C.A. budget drive and given a large club subscription. A new and popular "putter shop" run under the direction of Mrs. McVey, in which they worked at metalcraft, leather work, and other handicraft. They have had guest speakers and forums on civic and world problems, also on health, travel, books, and religious and educational subjects. A group of members attended the week-end regional conference at the Gloversville Y.W.C.A., and one member was delegate at the national business girls' assembly, and they have had occasional joint meetings with the club of the Newburgh association. Miss Dorothy Davis has been the very capable president during the year and there were 75 on the membership roll.

Young Business and Industrial Girls

The Y.G.B.I. Club, which has met on Tuesday evenings, opened the year by giving an entertainment at the TB Hospital and during the year the members have worked for the Christmas Cheer project and for the Red Cross. As most of the girls work in factories and stores, they are particularly interested in an active recreational program and have had basketball, tennis and badminton, roller-skating, and a week-end camping party. They have also had occasional suppers and social affairs, speakers, and boy-and-girl activities. Six members of the club attended the week-end conference at Gloversville, the theme being, "Philosophy for Creative Living," which gave them a larger conception of the significance of their club and also of the Y.W.C.A. During 1940 they have had an enrollment of 40 girls with Miss Helen Cragan as president during the early part of the year, and Miss Waneta Watrous during the remainder of the year. Mrs. George Ross and Miss Katherine Millard have acted as advisers to this club.

Another group of young employed girls who have come regularly to the building have been the girls of the Wassila Colony. Having little opportunity for recreation at the home, they have enjoyed a Friday evening program in the "Y" gymnasium with roller skating, games, occasional parties, and group singing. There are usually 25 girls at the Colony, but the turnover has meant that approximately 40 different girls have attended the activities.

The Oratorio Society

This group is sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. and has met at the Y.W.C.A. Monday evenings from January to May. During the past year, the club voted to enroll new members since they have changed the name and policy of the club and become exclusively an oratorio society. Under the direction of George Fowler of Poughkeepsie, they presented Parker's "Hera Novissima," this year before an appreciative audience at the high school auditorium. Mrs. William Eltinge was the accompanist. A group of members of the club have also sung at several general membership affairs of the Y.W.C.A. There were 37 active members in the chorus and 65 associate members, the cooperation of the latter being a very vital factor in the financing of the club. Miss Caroline Port was president of the Oratorio Society during the 1940 season.

Educational Department

The educational committee of the association, of which Mrs. Theron Culver is the chairman, has been responsible for the programs of all general membership affairs and classes. Mrs. William McVey has conducted classes in metalcraft where 60 of our members have produced some very useful and attractive articles and become interested in new skills. Miss Ottillia Riccobono has been an instructor in children's tap dancing and in social dancing for older school boys and girls as well as for adults, the registration in these classes being 98. Many other classes in crafts, homemaking, health and educational projects, also instruction in tennis, badminton, basketball, have been an important part of the programs of the various clubs. Since the Y.W.C.A. has no swimming pool or bowling alleys, the Y.M.C.A. has made available for girls and women to take advantage of these facilities in their building.

The details regarding our very busy department for our junior membership will be given in a separate report by the girl reserve secretary.

Community Service

Since the Y.W.C.A. has no dormitory, a list of approved rooms is kept to which transients or those seeking a permanent home may be referred and occasionally other organizations having large conventions in the city, ask our cooperation in the problem of housing delegates. Whenever possible to cooperate with the other agencies of the community, but owing to our own full schedule in a limited space, it is not often possible to arrange for outside meetings in our building. During the year we have cooperated with the Ministerial Association in their presentation of the religious drama, the Day of Prayer for Churches, the P.-T. A., the Y.M.C.A., the Home Bureau, Industrial Home, Day Nursery, the N. Y. A., the TB Hospital, Red Cross, Bundles for Britain, and other church groups and civic projects.

While statistics are a poor gauge of the real accomplishments of the Y.W.C.A. for the past year, we cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that the total attendance at association activities for 1940 was more than 22,828. A large number of young people at least found a wholesome use of leisure hours; to others, especially strangers, the new friendships in this association have meant much; but to at least some of our members we believe that the Y.W.C.A. brought a larger outlook and sense of their responsibility as world citizens, and a real enrichment of their personal lives. And whatever success may have been achieved, has been due to the concerted effort of the Board, the staff, the committees, and by no means least of all, to the many people of the community without whose interest and financial support the work could not be carried on.

Respectfully submitted,

M. Jean Estey

The following is the report of the Girl Reserve department:

Girl Reserve Report

Leadership

The Girl Reserves, the younger members of the Y.W.C.A., are organized into 18 clubs each sponsored by an adult volunteer leader whom we call an adviser. Each one works with the Girl Reserve Secretary through a weekly conference and monthly leaders meeting in which program suggestions and resource materials are given out, and problems of the individual girl or of the whole club discussed after which possible working solutions are made. Another volunteer group which works in conjunction with the department is the adult committee which consists of interested key women of the community who sponsor the whole younger girls' program, as well as to interpret it to the city, to act as resource leaders and to recruit the adult leadership. This year a chairman was appointed to work with the negro girls and to help find chaperons for their activities. In time, we hope to have an interracial committee working for a stronger program.

Objectives

It is hard to evaluate the results of the Y.W.C.A. program on the girls who participate in the activities since we deal with character building which is so intangible we can not measure it nor can we see the effects. However, two of our main objectives are to help girls make adjustments in the process of growing up during which they learn to take on responsibilities outside their home and school and to develop their personalities by means of a varied educational, recreational, and social program. In working with the advisers and committee of this department our emphasis has been to help them plan something new for sheer entertainment but for the growth of the individual, physically, mentally, and spiritually. Our aim is for these advisers to use the democratic process in conducting their meetings and in planning and choosing their program therefore it is for this reason that the Y.W.C.A. has no definite program to offer but only ideals and goals toward which we hope to be guiding them.

Bluebirds

The age limit for Girl Reserves according to National Standards is 12 years, however, for the past 10 years we have had a group called the Bluebirds for children between 8 and 11 years here on Saturday morning because it was felt by the committee there was a community need. Because of the large number enrolled and of the continuing interest it has seemed unwise to discontinue this group. Two advisers with the assistance of high school girls, sponsor their varied program of games, songs, stories, handicraft and outings. Last spring they produced a colorful pageant, a story of the seasons, for their mothers and friends.

Grade School Clubs

Our most extensive work is being done in the 10 grade school clubs as a large majority of the girls of the 6th and 7th grades are in the "Y" activities where they have opportunity for recreation, handicraft, music, dramatics, cooking, sewing and discussions. This year one of these clubs, the negro girls, also in September principals of No. 1, 2, 3, and 4 schools cooperated with us in having those clubs meet in the building under their curriculum. Approximately once a month these clubs have joint socials or services. For example, all at the present time are busy making table decorations for the Health Banquet, February 1, which will draw to the close the activities of the subject of health. These include field trips to food factories, etc. In December they presented, "The Christmas Story" through picturesque tableaux of the Nativity and by singing beautiful carols of other lands. In November an inspirational recognition ceremony in which members of the whole department restated their old pledges and accepted new challenges to live finer Christian lives, was held in the municipal auditorium. Last June the club girls for the younger clubs were drawn to a close by holding an outing at Camp Wendy.

M. J. M. Clubs

The girls coming from Myron J. Michael School have been divided into three clubs. The advisers working with these clubs have been giving them more independence in planning their activities; the girls discuss more freely problems of their interest, and they have taken on several service projects for some needy of the community. However, practically the same recreational and educational opportunities have been given them while their socials vary according to their age.

High School Clubs

Our greatest hope for character building through concrete educational programs has been in our high school clubs in which we have had speakers or discussion leaders on such subjects as: our foreign born, the health of our community, opportunities offered our minority groups, breaking down interracial barriers and world fellowship and prayer. These clubs have organized a very active basketball league composed of eight teams. They have also sponsored dances and skating parties where all complete responsibility was carried by the members. The Cheerios, the negro girls club, have earned enough money to send all members to the Y.M.C.A. camp for two week-ends this past summer. The Tri-Hi's at their May-Day Breakfast and their fashion show earned enough money to pay for the bus for their World's Fair trip in September and also rented the Y.M.C.A. camp for a week-end outing. All three high school clubs have carried on fine service projects for some of the less fortunate in our community.

Walkill Cottage Group

We have a new group of negro girls coming from the Walkill Cottage in New Paltz. These 15 girls are sponsored by the Children's Aid Society of New York city. Their supervisor made the contact last October while they were attending a dance held by the Cheerio Club. They have enjoyed roller skating, basketball, ping pong, volleyball and other forms of recreation. At the Christmas program given jointly by the three negro clubs, these girls presented, "The Gift of the Magi," and sang two carols. They have shown interest in handicraft and plan other educational projects in the future.

Recreation

Since the Y.W.C.A. does not have a separate Health Education Department, a great part of our time is devoted in giving recreation to the club members. During the winter months roller skating and basketball are very popular on the club day and on Saturday afternoons. Other forms of recreation which meet their interest are ping pong tournaments, volleyball, badminton, tennis and hiking. The younger girls are given instruction in basketball for two months after which time the league games for both grade school and high school are played weekly. Our new staff workers have been of great assistance in supervising the play in the gymnasium and has taught many new games.

Stay-at-Home Camp

Each summer this department holds a Stay-at-Home Camp for girls between the ages of 9 and 14 for three weeks beginning the first week in July. The program consists of two days of indoor activities including interpretive dancing, creative dramatics, handicraft, singing and rhythm band and two days of outdoor-activities when swimming is taught quite exclusively under the supervision of a capable swimming instructor. The rest of the activities enjoyed on the outdoor day are flag raising, stories and talks, games and exercises, rowing and doggie roasts. A group of 30 children and 10 counselors enjoyed an over night stay at the Y.M. Camp and on the last night we closed the program with an appropriate camp fire ceremonial in the Waters' woods.

Religious Drama

This fall the Y.W.C.A. cooperated with many churches of the community in producing "The Lord's Prayer," one of the most beautiful and inspirational religious dramas ever to be shown to a Kingston audience. The Y.W. with the assistance of some of the Hi-Y boys of the Y.M. and three prominent men of the community enacted the last petition. Nine of the cast were members of the Tri-Hi club and four from the adult membership. Our affiliation with the religious drama gives proof that there is a possibility for a stronger connection with the churches in doing similar city wide projects.

Girl Reserve Conferences

Delegations to conferences from the Girl Reserve Department during the last year has been quite varied and wide spread. I had the privilege of attending the First National Conference for Girl Reserve Secretaries of the Y.W.C.A. held at Lake Forest, Ill., in January 1940. Although the 350 delegates came from almost every state and from several foreign countries we had the wonderful opportunity of doing a very intensive study in our special field of work with the adolescent girl. The Tri-Hi Club sent 13 of their members to the Mid-Winter Conference in Troy, on March 5. Delegations from 10 of the Y.W.C.A.'s of the Hudson Valley met annually to share program ideas and to learn more about the "Y." The Kingston girls presented the play, "The Future Has a Past," which interpreted the theme of the conference, "Exploring the Y."

Four High School Girl Reserves and I attended the Summer Conference at Camp Sloane, Lakeville, Conn., from June 22 to 29. Here a large representative group from eight states discussed quite extensively "how we could get along in this complex world with ourselves and others." In December we also sent four representatives to Albany to help plan the Regional Conference to be held on April 5. These workers over the program and chose the theme, "After High School What?"

There has been a membership of 708 different girls enrolled as club members in the department. The total attendance for the year was 11,661. Mrs. Raymond Rignall is the chairman of the G. R. Committee.

As in other youth associations there is a possibility there will be a change of leadership toward the rights of individuals, therefore it is for us adults to strengthen the program so it will make a constructive impression upon the mind of each girl.

Respectfully submitted,

CAROLYN MULLIN.

Among the eight new directors who were elected to the board were Mrs. Ward Brigham, Mrs. Herbert Fister, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Mrs. Charles Ramsey, Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds, Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor and Mrs. Charles Terwilliger.

Mrs. John B. Sterley, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Miss Frances Osterhoudt and Miss Beatrice Powley were named as members of the 1941 nominating committee.

Musical selections were given by a group from the Oratorio Society, Miss Jessie Kaprellian, Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Mrs. Henry Terpening, Jr., Miss Ruth Tongue, Mrs. Frank Burger and Miss Caroline Port. Miss Edna Merriehew was the accompanist.

The Rev. D. Linton Doherty, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church asked the blessing. The Rev. Arthur S. Carroll, superintendent of the Kingston district of Methodist churches, a personal friend of Dr. Twiddy, introduced the speaker.

Three Arrested

Three autoists were arrested Friday by the police on charges of overtime parking in the uptown business district. All three autoists furnished $2 bail for their appearance later in police court. The three were Arthur P. Miller of East Hartford, Conn., Herbert C. Schrenning of Brooklyn, and Katherine Ebel of Lake Katrine.

Old Stone House May Be Bought For Gas Station

Negotiations are being made by the Gulf Company for the purchase of what is known as the old stone cottage at the intersection of Greenkill avenue and Fair street. The property is owned by former Sheriff Edgar T. Shultis.

It is understood that if the deal goes through that the old stone cottage will be taken down and the site used for a gasoline station.

According to rumor the present Gulf drive-in gas station at the intersection of the Boulevard, Greenkill avenue and Fair and Wall streets, will be taken over by the Standard Oil Company in the spring.

This property was leased by the Gulf concern for five years and it is said that the lease expires in the spring and the Standard Oil concern has obtained an option to purchase the property.

That is the reason, it is said, why the Gulf concern is negotiating for the purchase of the old stone cottage.

The old stone cottage was purchased by Mr. Shultis in 1918. The building has an interesting history. It was erected in 1850 by Andrew Lyons. In the 91 years that have elapsed old timers recall that the cottage was used for residential purposes, later as a Sunday school, and still later as a saloon.

At the present time it is used for residential purposes and is occupied by two families. Older residents recall that the cottage was the scene of a murder many years ago.

Russian Invents Third Dimension Depth in Movies

Moscow, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Soviet foreign office demonstrated to foreign diplomats and correspondents today a new stereoscopic motion picture machine which, its inventor claimed, adds a third dimension—depth—to the movies.

The youthful inventor, Semyon Ivanoff, presented seven experimental short films, including a color scene of a fancy dress ball which, he said, "combined all the modern developments of the cinema—motion, sound, color and depth."

Ivanoff said the essential element of his apparatus was a sixteen perspective grill or transparent screen of 30,000 closely spaced wires having a total length of nearly 100 miles. This grill was placed in front of the usual movie screen.

Double films, taken from slightly different angles, were cast on the screen by the projection machine and, with two mirrors, reflected back through the grill to the spectator, providing a separate image for each eye.

The picture shown included flowing water, flying birds and bouncing balls which appeared to fall in the auditorium.

United States Ambassador Lawrence A. Steinhardt and the ambassadors of the three major belligerent powers—Sir Richard Stafford Cripps of Great Britain, Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenburg of Germany and Dr. Augusto Rosso of Italy—were among diplomats who attended with their staffs.

Two Retired Railroaders To Be Guests at Dinner

Two retired O. & W. employees, Edward J. Craig, former roundhouse foreman, and John Brandt of Kerkhonson, one-time general boiler inspector, will be guests of honor at a dinner given at the Elks' Club in Middletown tonight by the Supervisors Association of the Locomotive Department. Frank Imbolz is chairman of arrangements.

FASHIONS and HOUSEHOLD HINTS FOR WOMEN

Finger-Tip Tips From The Ski-Ways

Peggy Townsend dons beauty gloves.

Arctic explorers may not care if their hands are rough. But a debutante does.

She may ski one day and attend a formal ball in Washington, D. C., the next. And just for that reason pretty Peggy Townsend has her special defense against rough hands.

Carries Massage Cream

Since her debut in 1938 she has been taking the ski trails at her favorite resort.

She carries a jar of hand massage cream with her ski equipment and slaps the cream on her hands the minute she comes indoors.

She isn't above wandering around the house in cotton beauty gloves. That's the easiest way to keep the cream on her hands until it gets its work in. She has to do special duty for her hands most of the year because riding, golf and tennis are among her interests between skiing seasons.

Favors Deep Shades

Her beauty box is filled with tips on pretty finger tips. Her favorite shades of polish are deep flagship and dark fire-like tones. There's a satiny base to apply to her nails, and she takes it to the tips for greater support of the nail. There's nail cream to be applied about three times a week. At least one time it goes over the entire nail, other times only around the cuticle.

Peggy Townsend never cuts the cuticle. "It's like cutting off the hem of a dress, the edges are sure to fray," she says.

These Women!

By ADELAIDE KERR

Queen Mary is playing her part in England's war. The queen, who was Britain's most prominent woman in the last war and who rejects the title "dowager" though she no longer rules, is living in semi-retirement in "my village in the West country," beyond the blitzkrieg zone.

But she does her bit where she is. She instructs a gardening squad of 20 evacuee children from Birmingham in one of the planting plots. (Most every available square foot of land is used for the production of war rations.) Sometimes she digs a little herself.

Besides that she knits incessantly for soldiers, sailors and airmen, though the scarfs she does are given anonymously to prevent profiteering from their sale.

Every day the silver-haired queen, grown frailer with the years and always wearing one of her famous hats, walks down the village street to inspect the heap of scrap metal mounting on the green.

When she rides she goes in the old high-roofed royal limousine—marked contrast to the golden coach which used to carry her through London's streets to the opening of parliament. She runs her household on a war basis, orders very simple meals and has substituted the native cider for wine.

Women played an important part in the decoration of the S.S. America, newest and largest passenger liner ever built in this country. Anne Urquhart and Dorothy Marckwald of New York designed the modern—but not modernistic—furniture of bleached and natural walnut and mahogany, and chose hangings and bed covers in nine different color schemes. Other women contributed murals, panels and curtain fabrics. For a deluxe suite, Constance L. Smith executed aluminum leaf panels representing ducks in the shore grasses of Chesapeake Bay. To accent the walls of the tourist dining room, Hildreth Meiere turned out chromium and copper skyline silhouettes of Paris, London, San Francisco and New York. Dorothy Liebes, weaving virtuoso, executed pale gray ballroom curtains, each studded with two big red American beauty roses.

Georgia's first lady, wife of Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge, runs the family's 2,000-acre farm in Teair County. Circumstances forced her into it about 15 years ago, when her husband went to Atlanta as Commissioner of Agriculture. Someone had to run the farm. She often is up at 5 and works until after sundown, supervising the care of cattle and hogs and the growing of watermelons, cantaloupes, cotton and corn. Soon, for the third time, she will be running the Atlanta governor's mansion which she says is "no harder than running the farm."

Elbow-length gounlet gloves in red plaid taffeta, with turn-back hat to match.

Purple reefer, purple calot, with scarf in "jealous green."

(Purple ran a close second to green, the Futures favorite.)

Turkish turban in brilliant striped silk, worn with an off-white shantung suit.

Fish-tail black dinner suit in sheer wool—hemline 12 inches from the floor in front and swooping down to floor-length in back—worn with tiny white flower hat.

Capes—hip-length in tweed over suits, daytime length in monotonous over contrasting dresses, floor-length in white for evening. (Capes are high style for spring.)

Cape-sleeved coat in Chinese red, topped a moss pink dress. Both with sloping shoulders. (Football shoulders are out.)

"Glass" hat, of hand-crocheted plastic yarn. (In hats, anything goes.)

Navy blue day dresses, accented with short gloves in pur-suit red, and matching red ankle-strap sandals.

Cadet blue suit, very slim with aviation emblems. (Patriotism carries on.)

The shop referred her to a manufacturer. Now, between English and history study, Barbara works out clothes designs for the manufacturer, who pays her a royalty. U. S. Fashion's Declaration of Independence Offers 3-Point Trend in Apparel for Spring

HAREM DRAPE frock in purple and pink—a prophetic model from the Fashion Futures show in New York, January 8 and 9. Hemline is caught up at center front for drape effect. Pink mousseline de soie skirt and parasol. Purple bodice.

For home defense, or for pleasure, a one-piece aviation suit in heavy white shantung. It points the trend toward one-pieces for sports.

More flattering than spectacular, these two little suits of navy sheer crepe are a part of the Fashion Futures selections for spring. One includes a ruffled pink collar, the other a hat of starched eyelet embroidery in pink to match the below-the-skirt petticoat.

New York—Dropped shoulders, harem draped skirts, and capes promise to be the novel trends in spring wearing apparel.

These three style points were featured again and again in models shown at Fashion Futures, New York's large-scale January style show.

The show represented the cooperative effort of manufacturers, designers and leading retailers to establish New York as the new style center of the world and to point style trends for the coming season. Show plans were in charge of the Fashion Group, Inc., a nation-wide organization of women engaged in fashion careers.

More Than 500 Styles
More than 500 advance spring styles were shown to an audience of 20,000 retailers.

This will be the first season of real independence for American fashion (the influence of Paris still was strong last fall).

If the Futures influence prevails, we'll wear skirts a trifle shorter than at present. We'll gradually modify our padded, squared-off shoulder line until it slopes naturally. We'll adopt capes, long ones, short ones, bright-colored ones, for all-occasion wear in the spring.

Split Skirt Effect
We'll have at least one dress with a harem draped skirt, the hemline caught up to give a split-skirt effect. We'll endorse big splashy prints rather than neat little prints for sports and evening wear.

And, Fashion 'Futures or no, you can be sure we'll continue to be patriotic in our dress.

Try this new dressing for your next fruit salad: Mix equal portions of white cream cheese and cranberry jelly. Mix this in half as much salad dressing or mayonnaise and place atop chilled diced fruit on any salad green.

Keep a piece of alum in the drawer with silverware. It often prevents tarnishing.

Chopped ripe olives and chili

A fruit garnish just right for broiled chops is made by dipping fresh or canned pears or peaches in mayonnaise and then browning or boiling until soft.

Hot cheese biscuits and fruit or fish salad make a pleasing pair to serve for informal evening refreshments.

Wash silverware in hot soapy water, rinse with boiling water and wipe immediately. If allowed

A coarse strainer makes a very satisfactory substitute for a food ricer. Rinse the strainer in boiling water, hold it directly over the serving dish then press the hot food through it.

Mix cream of mushroom and cream of pea soup, heat, and serve over hot broiled rice, macaroni or noodles.

New Coiffure Glamour Comes In Streaks

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

"Bleaching the tips" of the hair is the newest glamour trick of socialites and career women.

It follows the "blonde streak" vogue which got under way in many places last fall.

Latest star to have the tips of her blonde hair bleached is the tennis champion, Alice Marble.

"I've never known exactly what to do with any hair," declared

Alice Marble with her hair fluffed into a soft pompadour. One of her new styles for evening.

Miss Marble, whose locks are fine and soft, to be admired but hard to keep in place.

Laura de Gez, who has given many beauties new glamour with bleaching or streaking, suggested these changes for Miss Marble:

The tip bleach one inch from the ends of her hair, which, because of her tennis playing, is only three inches long.

A coronet braid of golden brown, a bit darker than her own gold-blond hair and with short ends tucked under, for night wear.

And also for evenings, the front fluffed into a soft pompadour with the back combed loose and fluffy too.

Has Helped Others

Other American beauties have taken Miss de Gez's suggestions for glamour.

Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton has a streak which sweeps from her widow's peak diagonally across from her center-parted hair.

Peggy Fitzgerald of the radio reverses the process, as Miss Marble does at times, by twining brown hair around her blonde tresses.

Joan Crawford dramatizes her auburn hair with a streak of gold.

If you want to experiment with the new glamour trick, you should put yourself in the hands of an expert, according to Miss de Gez.

Sharp Edges Important

The secret of having a perfect blonde streak, for instance, is to give it clean sharp edges, she said.

The bleaching agent should not spread fuzzily to the roots or locks of nearby hair.

White henna should be used to give body to the bleaching agent, she insisted.

The smartest streak is a lock of hair no wider than one-half inch at the roots.

Nut Coating for Doughnuts

Doughnuts go high hat when coated with a mixture of coconut and chopped nuts. Place the mixture in a paper sack, add a few doughnuts at a time, shake the bag and the doughnuts are quickly coated. This saves time and prevents waste.

YOU CAN MAKE IT

Trouble Saver for a Rainy Day

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Feature Service Writer

You can make a kit for children's galoshes, rubbers and umbrellas that will end some of the off-to-school confusion most homes experience on stormy days.

The materials: Three-quarters of a yard of 40-inch oil cloth, denim or ticking and some bias tape.

Cut one piece 12 inches wide with selvages at top and bottom. Cut one 30 inches long by 4 inches wide from remaining material for the umbrella pocket. Two pieces 8 by 4 inches form pockets for rubbers. A piece 12 by 10 inches makes the galoshes pocket.

Bind one of the 4-inch edges of the umbrella pocket, one of the 4-inch edges of each of the rubbers pockets and one 12-inch edge of the galoshes pocket.

Turn one-eighth of an inch under on three sides of the pockets. Pin in place on the 40-by-12 piece, and stitch. Bind the four sides of the kit and make three loops of bias tape to hang it by.

You can put the name of the child on oil cloth or embroider it on other fabrics.

A place for everything and everything (Mother hopes) in its place. These kits are 12 by 40 inches.

White Sales in the Limelight

A 108-inch sheet on a standard 67-inch bed allows generous tuck-under and fold-back.

By MARGARET KERNODLE

The mid-winter flurry of white sales in this country focuses attention on the stocks of sheets in homes where smart housewives make their money provide the most.

Here are some things for the bargain buyer to look out for:

1. Little flecks of white on your fingers after you rub at sheet briskly. They mean that it is heavy sizing that makes the sheet seem firm. Laundering will dissolve the sizing and leave the sheet limp and lifeless.

2. Shrinkage. It's wise to allow six inches.

3. Loosely woven and flimsy selvages. (Woven hems are good.)

4. Cut sheeting—which is likely to make sheets that return from the laundry with uneven hems. Torn sheets lie flatter and straighter.

5. Short sheets. Experts recommend a 108-inch sheet (before hemming) for the standard 76-inch bed.

6. Colored sheets. They should carry a dependable label.

7. Seconds. The defects should include only such things as soiled spots, irregular hems or oily thread.

Good artificial lighting is important to health. A light meter will tell you if you are getting enough light in your rooms.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 25 (AP)—The stock market had rallying ideas today but these were mostly of a feeble character.

Steels and specialties edged upward at the start. Dealings were among the slowest since last October. A few inactives jumped several points on small turnovers. While many issues were at a standstill, fractional gains were fairly well distributed at the close.

Transfers for the two hours were around 250,000 shares.

Brokers thought some of the early nibbling was due partly to short covering and a little new buying based on the theory a change for the better might be at hand in view of the lengthy stalemate. It was recalled that the list, on average, had been able to tack on but one plus sign since Jan. 10.

Attracting support were Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, Eastern Kodak, Westinghouse, J. C. Penney, Consolidated Edison and Standard Oil of N. J.

Rails never got far ahead but most maintained their balance. Occasional losers included Texas Corp., Chesapeake & Ohio, General Electric and International Harvester.

Carrier bonds again were moderately popular. Commodities were a trifle mixed.

In the curb where trends were extremely narrow minor advances were posted for Bell Aircraft, Cities Service, Jumble Oil, Gulf Oil and American Gas.

British Battleship Brings Halifax to U. S. Shores

Bearing England's new ambassador to the United States, Lord Halifax, the new British battleship H. M. S. King George V. (above) is shown steaming up Chesapeake Bay toward Annapolis, Md., where President Roosevelt waited to welcome the arriving envoy. The King George V. only recently commissioned, made the Atlantic crossing with greatest secrecy and reached the United States unharmed. Note its decks cleared for action.

Halifax Starts His Job in U. S.

Conference Is Held

A conference between the Chief Executive and Halifax followed. Then they and members of their parties dined as the yacht steamed back to port. As soon as it was tied up Halifax received reporters aboard and outlined the work he expects to do in this country.

"I have come here," he said, "as a member of the war cabinet serving his majesty's ambassador, to make known to the government and people of the United States from time to time in what ways, if they are willing, they can best give us the help we need."

"The more quickly your generous help can be made effective, the sooner shall we be able to break this Nazi power that is trying to enslave Europe and the world."

Of the future he said: "We have assuredly a rough, difficult and perhaps a very long road before us; but the British people are united as never before in history, and I have no doubt that with your help we shall win through and so save those causes on which your civilization and ours depend."

When the brief press conference broke up the presidential party and that of the ambassador went ashore to waiting automobiles. Halifax, attired in a dark blue suit and white shirt with black stripes, carried his bowler hat, ulster and omnipresent umbrella—the latter article being especially useful. Those who had been waiting him on the dock were rain-soaked and shivering.

Charles Peake, private secretary to Halifax, preceded him ashore. Slung over Peake's left shoulder was an old World War type of trench helmet and a modern gas mask. He said these grim reminders of London bombings belonged to Lord Halifax. Asked why he brought them along, he explained that "one never knows when one might have to return."

Meeting Is Held

The annual meeting of the maintenance department of the river division of the New York Central Railroad was held Friday. More than 50 employees attended the meeting which was conducted by Safety Agent Hammond. Also present were E. J. Bayer, division engineer; Lancelot Phelps, supervisor of tracks; W. L. Ulster Red Cross Reports Submitted At Annual Meeting

The following reports of the year's activities were read at the annual meeting of the Ulster County Chapter American Red Cross, Thursday, January 23, at the Court House.

The 12 months which have elapsed since our annual meeting last January have been exceedingly active ones for the Ulster County Chapter American Red Cross. It has been a year marked with great need for service, and there is every reason to believe that this need will continue. We have carried on our Home Service work with more than the usual number of demands for assistance, have been able to help several cases to receive an increase in pensions, and have made many investigations for far away chapters as well as keeping in touch with our home cases.

Fortunately we have been spared any disaster relief work, but we have our committee for disaster relief, headed by G. Wallace Codwise whom we would immediately call on in case of an emergency of any sort. This committee would work in connection with the mayor, the board of public works, doctors and nurses, and may I state that we have at the present time a dozen enrolled Red Cross nurses in our city, and we hope before long to have many more.

The first aid committee, headed by Dr. Henry Keator, has accomplished considerable work during the past year. Many of the men employed by the Department of Agriculture desired instruction, and a class of 25 took the course last summer and qualified for certificates which were procured from Washington through our office. Since then, several other classes have been formed.

The life saving work was also very active during the past summer, about 40 pupils qualifying for certificates under the instruction of Mr. McCluskey at the Y. M. C. A. and Mr. Sylvester of the Kingston High School, both men being authorized instructors. Everett Schutt is chairman of the life saving committee.

The production work has been a very important activity of the chapter during the past year, as we have been called upon to make many garments for men, women and children in the war stricken areas, as well as quantities of knitted garments of all types and baby layettes. The garment and knitting work is in charge of Mrs. Thomas E. Hayes and Mrs. R. G. Johnston, and the layettes are supervised by Mrs. Allan L. Hansteln.

Our Chapter has already shipped over 6,000 new garments for war refugees and evacuees. In August this Chapter was called upon to take up the surgical dressings, and the National Organization requested us to send one or two volunteers to Albany to take the course of training which was being given at that time by a representative from Washington.

Mrs. George Hutton and Mrs. Stanley Matthews very kindly consented to take the course, and when they completed their work they returned and gave instructions to several ladies here who are now acting as supervisors in the work room at the Y. M. C. A. house where they meet Tuesdays of each week to carry on this work.

Last May, as you all recall, the country was called upon to raise $200,000 for war relief, and the quota assigned our Chapter was $200. We succeeded in raising $15,600 which we were happy to send as our share in this humane work. Charles W. Walton headed the committee to raise funds and we are deeply grateful to him for his interest and support, as well as to all those who gave so generously of their time and money to raise this amount.

On October 5th, a mystery drama entitled, "The Lord's Prayer" was presented at the High School through the efforts of Mrs. Howard Lewis, the Ministerial Association, and the choir of the First and Second Dutch Churches, augmented by the Junior Choir of the Second Dutch Church, with William Fredenburgh and Mrs. Ella Elting at the piano, and Mrs. Florence W. Cuddeby playing the violin. There were many participants from the various churches and all acted their parts well. The collection was for the benefit of the American Red Cross and was taken by 10 Red Cross nurses in uniforms, which added color and solemnity to the occasion. The sum of $171.97 was turned over to our treasurer, and we were exceedingly grateful for the amount.

On October 11, we were called upon to hold a conference here of Chapters of the Hudson Valley. These conferences are held annually in different towns to bring together representatives of various Chapters, where they may have an interchange of thoughts and ideas, and usually hear some very good speeches. They are generally held just before the Roll Call period to stimulate membership in the Red Cross. We had a tendence of nearly 200 and felt very gratified.

This brings us up to November and the Roll Call which started on the 11th and continued through the 30th. Mrs. Frederic Holcomb again served as general chairman, and the ward chairmen and county chairmen and all their associates have the thorough appreciation of Mrs. Holcomb and the Ulster County Chapter for their excellent work this year in helping to present the needs of the organization to the public in such a way as to receive the support of the community. The results of the Roll Call this year netted about $2,000 more than last year, which was most gratifying.

We appreciate the efforts of Henry Eighmy, our publicity chairman, and thank both The Freeman and Leader for their constant assistance through the Roll Call period.

And may I also say that we are of cooperation shown by all the auxiliaries and branches, as well as by the women of Kingston, in the Production Work which has really been a colossal undertaking the past year, and without the continuous support of the factories who have so kindly cut many of the garments, I fear we couldn't have accomplished such results. To Mr. Hoderath and Miss Evelyn Smith of the Vocational School we also extend our sincere appreciation for their loyalty all through the year.

In addition to the garments that have been sent to the war stricken areas, we were asked to make various articles for the veterans of the first World War who are confined in hospitals in our country, and through the assistance of our Woodstock branch we met the requests and received letters of true appreciation on receipt of the garments. At holiday time we endeavored to carry cheer to many families, and thus the year ended with a feeling of some satisfaction, but with the knowledge of much more ahead of us to accomplish if we as a chapter are to be of outstanding importance in the program mapped out by the National Organization for the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLOTTE W. TAPPEN,
Secretary.

Cold germs doubled their activity last year, causing twice the average amount of coughing and sniffing, according to county health officer Dr. J. L. Pomeroy of California. By eating nourishing foods, dressing to suit the weather and exercising daily in the open air, the possibility of catching cold may be reduced, he says.

Wife of Wallkill Guard Seeks Sum In Alimony Case

Mrs. Katherine M. Meehan of 84 Grant avenue, Albany, wife of John Terrence Meehan, Wallkill prison guard, seeks alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her suit for separation from her husband.

Before Justice Harry M. Schirck at special term in Albany Friday Mrs. Meehan said her husband was too "free and easy" with the use of his fists and she asked "reasonable" alimony and counsel fees pending final determination of her action for separation.

Mrs. Meehan is employed at the State Unemployment Division, Albany. In her petition Mrs. Meehan charged her husband with being "pugnacious" and described one incident where he tore her coat and slapped her face in North Pearl street, Albany, on March 17, 1936. They have a daughter, Sheila Mary, three, for whose support Mr. Meehan pays $25 a month.

Meehan in his answering affidavit denies the striking of his wife and maintains that she abandoned him and he offers to resume marital relations and become reconciled. Justice Schirck reserved decision.

Five Die in Storm; Cold Wave Is Due

(By The Associated Press)
Most of the nation east of the Rockies dug itself out from an icy sheet of snow and sleet today and girded for a predicted repetition of Friday's widespread storm that took at least five lives.

A Canadian-born cold wave moving south and east from Alberta and a storm area traveling northeast from Texas were expected to lash the Atlantic seaboard and north and south central states again.

The weather bureau said either snow, sleet or hard rains would pelt these regions in sub-freezing temperatures.

30 Trucks Operate
Thirty trucks worked throughout the night clearing the county highways and it was expected that by noon today all routes would be widened out. The shoving back of shoulders was being carried on early this morning.

Reports from drivers of snow removal equipment stated that the snow was from eight to 12 inches in depth. In the lower portion of the county the fall was not quite so heavy as in the vicinity of Kingston and westward where 10 to 12 inches of snow was encountered.

Although the snow was light, lack of wind prevented drifting and no drifts were reported from any section of the county. Men engaged on the Minnewaska Trail route reported the snowfall there about the same as in other localities, although frequently that route bears the brunt of storms. From Shandaken came reports of snow about a foot deep and drivers returning from the Sawkill-Mt. Marion section reported heavier snow there. One driver estimated that the snow in some localities on his run may have reached a depth of 18 inches but the light snow was easily moved.

At the Ulster County Highway garage on Gage street it was stat-

Those who found it necessary to park in the street over night last night, were faced with the same problem of digging out in time for work this morning as these people busy at the task of shoveling snow away from their car. This scene was on Lucas avenue but was typical of anywhere in the vicinity.

Storm Leaves Snow 9 to 12 Inches in City and County

Oppenheimer said this morning that the three snow loaders would be placed at work tonight, commencing at 11 o'clock, and he urged that motorists keep their cars off the main streets, and not park them at the curb so that the work of removing the snow could proceed without interruption.

It was planned to place one snow loader at work uptown, one in the central section on Broadway, and the other in the downtown business section.

In addition to the plows which worked throughout the morning crews of shovellers and trucks were placed at work removing piles of snow from in front of fire houses, schools and churches.

No Fires, No Accidents
Fortunately no fires broke out in the city during the progress of the storm, and no auto accidents were reported to the police department during the night.

It was found necessary where the hills and dangerous street intersections had been plowed to use sand.

Last night a big truck and trailer became caught sideways on the Wurts street hill, delaying traffic until the truck was straightened out. Another truck skidded sideways across the street on the Broadway hill.

The public works board plans to keep men and plows at work until all of the streets are opened. This morning practically every street had been plowed, and where only a one-way track had been made the plows are being again sent through the streets widening out the plowed track.

Throughout the county the snow was light and dry and none of the heavy tractor equipment was required to clear the highways. Early last evening the main highways had been covered and the work of widening out the routes was continued through the night and this morning.

The research will be financed by the Clayton Foundation of Houston, Tex. It will be under direction of Dr. Roger Williams, University of Texas bio-chemist who achieved distinction last year by artificial production of pantothenic acid, popularly known as the tenth vitamin.

When Dr. Williams succeeded in the synthesis of pantothenic acid, he became the first scientist to be credited successively with discovery, isolation and synthesis of a vitamin.

The Clayton foundation was established by the Texas family of that name which became wealthy in cotton marketing. Benjamin Clayton is president.

The same foundation also is backing an extended study of Malta fever being carried on in a special laboratory built by the university for the purpose.

Rumanian Aide Is Under Arrest

Rumania that rebels had poured gasoline over a Rumanian soldier and set him afire, quoting this as one example of barbarism against which the army had to fight.

The announcement said it was impossible to estimate the number of casualties.

The army, with tanks, is scouring Bucharest section by section in their search for rebel leaders.

Thousands of guardsmen who had been given state jobs after the abdication of King Carol II chose to remain in hiding and lose their posts rather than appear to face arrest and punishment.

Premier General Ion Antonescu had given them until tonight to appear or be crossed off the payroll.

A person attached to the government said 600 guardsmen finally were forced to surrender a munition depot they had held for days when the army opened water mains to flood the basement in which they were hiding.

A government announcement said "true Iron Guards" who took part in the rebellion would know how "to punish themselves," but added that the government would see to it that "bad guards" would be made to pay for their trouble-making.

The formation of a new national political party was announced. The army took over the Iron Guard church, from which all the movement's martyrs have been buried, and barred the entrance.

The government announced the dead "who had tried to destroy Rumania," must be buried in a section for those "without honors."

Thousands of guardsmen who held the posts of Rumanian commissars, which were abolished last week, were ordered to make full reports of their activities or face prosecution.

Army inspection of weapons used by the rebels during the rebellion disclosed that many came from a plant which had been in charge of Iron Guard commissars, it was reported.

More than 90 per cent of the human race would be controlled by the dictators and be organized both militarily and economically against us. A Japanese iron ring around Asia and Australia and a German iron ring around Africa and Europe, including Great Britain and Ireland, would cut us off from trade with so great a portion of the earth, that we—in a mutilated stump of the western hemisphere—would be thrown into economic disorder."

A recent survey of a large group of companies showed that yearly taxes equalled $283 for each common stockholder and $576 for each jobholder.

Local Man Achieves Sunday School Honor

A record of perfect attendance at Sunday school for 31 years has just been completed by Alfred R. Finley of 49 German street, who is secretary of the Sunday school of the Rondout Presbyterian Church. It was as a member of this Sunday school that Mr. Finley established his record.

Mr. Finley is employed by the Canfield Supply Company and is also active in local fireman affairs and for some years has been an active member of Cornell Hose Company.

It was while he was a boy in 1910 that Mr. Finley first began his perfect record attendance, and year after year his report card showed that he had not missed a Sunday.

Mr. Finley this year is starting on his 32nd year of perfect attendance.

It was our first visit to a New York radio studio and we were properly impressed. . . . and what a thrill Bill got when Billy Jones drove us as far uptown as Madison Square Garden in his car. . . . After that, we encountered the "Happiness Boys" a number of times. . . . Thus a friendship through the years. . . . Ernie Hare, the other half of that pioneer team, passed on a year ago last March. . . . and how different is radio from that far off Friday night.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

This & That: Taxi Driver No. 38342 sings bits of grand opera as he drives about the streets of New York.

There are still some faded orange periscope and trylon World's fair route markers attached to posts on upper Broadway. . . . The Times square trylon has disappeared. . . . But the periscope remains. . . . It is not a city information booth. . . . Sign in a swank shop window: "Britain delivers the goods." . . . and a display of imported articles is proof. . . . That veteran organ-grinder with the white handlebar mustache is again cranking out "La Marseilles" and other airs in the West Eighties and along Riverside drive. . . . His music supports a wife and eight children. . . . As if I didn't have trouble enough keeping my mind off fishing in the summer, Jack Cann sends along a reprint of a story of huge muskies that have been caught almost within the shadows of Detroit skyscrapers.

Memories: Recently Billy Jones dropped dead on Broadway. . . . His identity was established through a radio script found in his pocket. . . . So my mind went back to that long past Friday night when May, Bill (then a little tad) and I journeyed all the way from Washington Heights down to 95 Broadway to hear the "Happiness Boys" broadcast. . . . It was our first visit to a New York radio studio and we were properly impressed. . . . and what a thrill Bill got when Billy Jones drove us as far uptown as Madison Square Garden in his car. . . . After that, we encountered the "Happiness Boys" a number of times. . . . Thus a friendship through the years. . . . Ernie Hare, the other half of that pioneer team, passed on a year ago last March. . . . and how different is radio from that far off Friday night.
